Inaugural Ball

tickets available

One of the highlights of any election year is the Inaugural Ball.

And, Mayor William M. Oakley, who won an unprecedented sixth term as the chief elected official of the City of Romulus, will host the Sixth Inaugural Ball on Saturday, Jan. 30 at the Hilton Airport Inn, 31500 Wick Road in Romulus.

Tickets are still available at $25 per person and may be purchased by telephoning 941-1077. Cocktails will begin at 7:30 p.m. with dinner at 8:30 p.m. Dancing will be to the music by "Star Dance" from 9:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m.

Huron Class of '72

plans reunion

The Huron High School Class of 1972 is planning its 10th year anniversary reunion. Barb Douglas and Jackie Dregansky, who are chairpersons for the affair, are looking for former classmates.

Persons should contact Ms. Dregansky at 782-9186 or Barb Douglas at 782-0353.

Medal of Merit nominations

It is that time of the year Congressman William D. Ford (D-15) is seeking candidates for his "Medal of Merit for Outstanding Youth Awards".

Ray Cantrell, Romulus city clerk, informed City Council that the congressman is seeking nominations for the award, presented to youth ages 14 through 18 and 18-22 for their contributions to society.

Deadline for nominations is March 18.

Dedication ceremonies will be held tonight at 7 p.m. for the Harry Hidenfelter Memorial Sports Library in the Belleville High School library, 501 West Columbia.

$50,000 grant for energy

A $50,000 federal contract has been awarded Wayne County's Energy Management Council to prepare a supply-side analysis of optional energy sources available to local communities, County Commissioner, James Rashid, the Council's Chairman, announced today.

"The new Phase II Program takes up where Phase I left off," Rashid said. "Phase I preached conservation and provided communities with programs, strategies and incentives to be used by the community and its residents alike."

"While we would have liked to have pursued the results of the conservation projects to determine what savings, if any, were realized, the federal government has opted to investigate supply-side resources instead," the commissioner explained.

According to Rashid, the initial stages of Phase II indicates Wayne County's total energy resources, excluding synthetics, will have a 24.597 trillion BTU (British Thermal Unit) shortfall by the year 2000 at the bare minimum. "This gives us a picture of what the County and its communities must shoot for if we are to maintain our present energy level," he said.

City employees nearly miss getting paid

Romulus city employees can thank a brief truce between Mayor William Oakley and City Clerk Raymond Cantrell for their paychecks last week.

If Mayor Oakley and Cantrell had not decided to go over the warrants and agree to pay city employees at last Tuesday's council meeting, it is doubtful that employees would have received their checks on time.

Council has to approve warrants — a promise to pay — before City Treasurer can issue the checks.

However, Oakley and Cantrell have been waging a duel over whose department has jurisdiction over "accounts payable" — the finance department or the city clerk's department — and the battle is to be decided this week by the Attorney General.

Cantrell contends that the City Charter empowers the City Clerk with authority to handle those accounts, while Mayor Oakley begs to differ with Cantrell. The mayor says that there is ample provisions in the Charter that gives the authority to the mayor's office.

Cantrell has sought out an Attorney General's opinion to determine which of the two correctly interprets the charter. He says that he will abide by the decision.

In the meantime, City Treasurer Beverly McNally informed council that she has no alternative but to withhold payment to vendors and those who have contracts with the city unless both the mayor and the clerk's signatures are affixed to the warrants.

A two-hour battle in the council chambers resolved little. Both disputing parties agreed to await the outcome of the Attorney General's office.

A motion by Councilman Pete Bergeron "that the accounts payable remain in the finance department until the city remains the Attorney General's opinion" received the narrowest of support. The motion passed as Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks, Fred Junior Block, Alan Lambert and Bergeron cast "Yes" votes and they received opposition from councilman Jimmie Raspberry and Barry Baumann.

Councilman John Lewkewicz abstained from the voting.

Bergeron said he didn't feel that the City Clerk's office should have the power to decide who should or should not be paid.

"Why should the city clerk dictate to the city of Romulus who should be paid or not paid," Bergeron said. "I believe the city clerk's function is the record-keeping of the city and it is my opinion that the clerk should audit the warrants to make sure that the bills are the same as the checks that are going to be drawn."

"And I truly believe that the finance department should be responsible for the 'Accounts Payable'."

Block told the mayor and clerk that "you two should resolve your differences."

"I say someone here has to bite the bullet," Block continued. "It's probably a question of pride. However, this city must continue to function, so we're going to have to compromise until we hear from the Attorney General's office."

Domen resigns as V-B trustee

The Van Buren Board of Trustees will be scanning through a score of possible candidates the next few weeks to choose a successor to trustee Fred Domen who resigned from the board last week.

Domen last month announced that he would step down from the board to pursue business ventures, and said that he would submit his formal resignation to the board on Jan. 12. The board received and accepted Domen's resignation last Tuesday.

"The board members will have to interview and finally select from the field the successful candidates," said Patricia Cullin, Township Supervisor, who added that there was no timetable for the selection. "The decision (to select the trustee) will be up to the board."

At present, there are four candidates who are seeking to fill the vacancy: Edgar Busch, of 12585 Stanley Rd.; Elmer Memering, 45759 Ecorse; Hugh Betts, 50953 Expressway; and Ann LePendu, 47032 Ayres.

If the board fails to select a successor within 45 days then Governor Milliken can step in and determine who will sit on the local board.

Domen, elected as a Republican 10 years ago but then switching to the Democratic Party, told the board of his intentions to resign early in December.

In his written resignation to the board dated Jan. 15, 1982, Domen stated: "Please accept my resignation from the Van Buren Township Board as Trustee. I feel that you have had ample time to consider a replacement for the position, and will make a competent decision."

Learn how to be assertive

An assertiveness training group for women ages 20 and over will be conducted in early February at the Cornerstone Counseling Services, 23501 Sumpter Rd., Belleville.

The group will meet once a week for approximately 1½ hours for an 8-week duration. There is a small registration fee, and those interested should contact Joan Levy, Ann Bessy or Chris Griffin at 461-6301.

The man behind the mask

With temperatures hitting a record low of 15 below over the weekend, more and more residents are facing the "Siberian winter" with masks. And the man behind the mask is none other than Wayne County charter commissioner Bart Berg who said that the mask is a perfect protective gear and advises senior citizens to do the same. The break in the cold wave came Tuesday when the temperature climbed to 23.

Warrant issued

Police hunt suspect in holiday holdups

Romulus police said yesterday they have a suspect in the New Year's holiday holdups of three separate gas stations. The Wayne County Prosecutor's Office has issued a warrant charging one of two men in those robberies, according to Romulus Police Chief Donald Flood.

"Although we have a warrant for the suspect's arrest," Chief Flood said,

"We are withholding his name until he's in police custody."

Two men robbed a total of three stations during the first day of the New Year and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash. Police said that they do not know the accomplice's name.

Chief Flood added that he believes that the two were involved in all three holdups.

Belleville gets Cable TV

Cable TV has arrived in Belleville. That's the word from Peter Newell, president of Omnicom of Plymouth whose company was granted Belleville's franchise last year.

Newell told City Council Monday night that his firm is ready to test the system.

"We have constructed a cable TV system that presently has 36 channels but will eventually have 52 channels in the near future," Newell told council.

Newell said the final phase of the construction should be completed by Feb. 5, when the tests will take place.

On May 15, 1981, Omnicom was awarded the Belleville franchise to construct this city's first cable TV network. The Plymouth-based company posted a $100,000 cash bond to ensure speedy construction on the system.

"We stood to lose all or part of the bond if construction of the Belleville system fell behind, but this is no longer a concern," Newell said. "The system is 90 percent complete and will begin serving subscribers by early February."

The cable TV firm will offer first run movies, all-sports channel, all-news channel and many more features to its subscribers.

Arctic cold strikes record low in area

The killer cold winds that swept across the United States and Michigan left its scars on southeastern Michigan and the area over the weekend.

For the second consecutive week record lows were set in Metropolitan Detroit and local municipalities and townships continue to shiver from the deep freeze.

More than 260 deaths were attributed to the bitter cold that has paralyzed much of the nation. Fortunately for the area, residents didn't have to struggle through power outages and snow that blanketed the country.

Residents who were brave enough to venture on the highways Sunday found the roads slippery and precarious.

"We had six auto accidents, but none resulting in any serious injuries," said a Van Buren Township police official. "I think the people who had to drive, drove very carefully and cautiously."

Sumpter Township's Police Chief Clinton Brown said that the record cold didn't hamper police operations. "I feel most of the residents preferred staying home and not risk having their car break down on the highway."

"I think we're all pretty sick of this cold—wish it would stay in Alaska where it belongs," he quipped.

Huron Township Police Chief Joe Carney said that the township had several accidents over the weekend due to the slippery roads, "but nothing sensational. No fatalities or anything like that."

"I guess the people have gotten kind of used to it," Chief Carney added, "and they've conditioned themselves to take it easy."

Romulus Police Chief Donald Flood

also said that "there were no serious accidents due to the cold, but a 'freak accident' led to the death of a 57-year-old Allen Park woman earlier in the week."

The victim, Carmel Goodlet, an employee of Mirco Products, 28171 Northline Road, parked her vehicle in the company's lot and got out. According to police, Ms. Goodlet then went to the rear of the car which suddenly jerked backwards and pinned the victim.

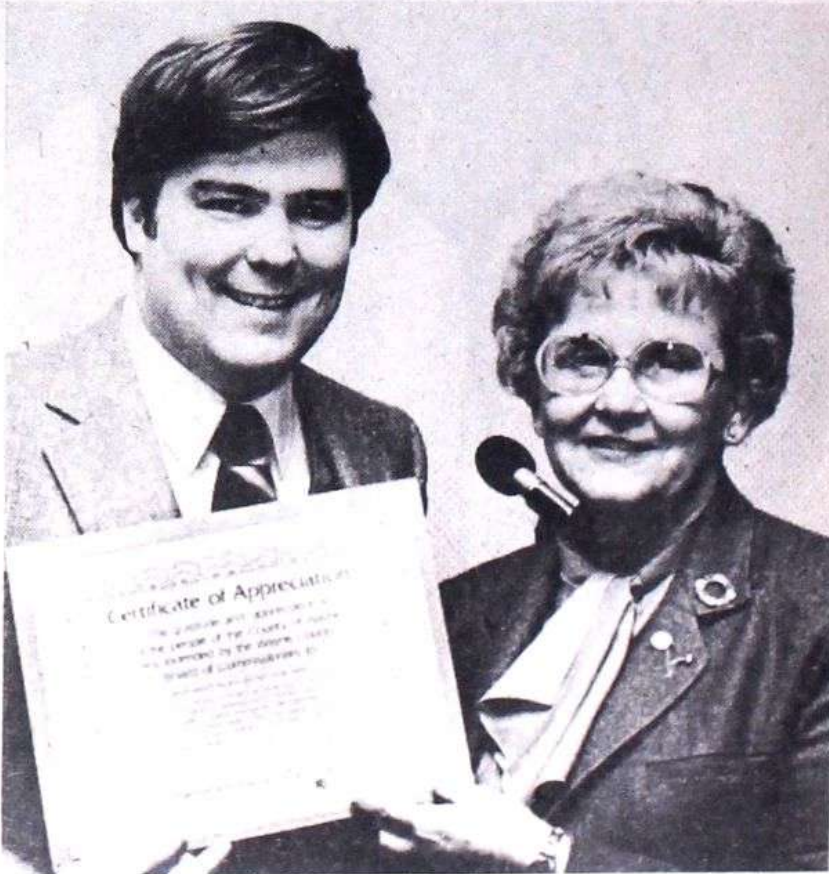

Ms. Goodlet was pronounced dead on arrival at Heritage Hospital.

She was the first person to lose her life on Romulus roads this year.

Super Sewer

Sumpter Planning Commission to hold public hearing

Super Sewer will come up for debate when the Sumpter Township Planning Commission holds a public hearing at 7 p.m., Wed., Feb. 3 at the township hall, 23480 Sumpter Road.

Township officials say that the hearing has been scheduled to provide all interested residents an opportunity to ask questions, seek information, and discuss details on the proposed sanitary sewer system.

The "Super Sewer", a system of sewers proposed for some 11 local and neighboring communities including Van Buren, Sumpter, Huron, Romulus, Flat Rock, Rockwood, Gibraltar, and Woodhaven, was initially proposed 10 years ago, however, financing the massive project and political snarls caused its delay.

The cost of the project is estimated at approximately $250 million and may run into the $375 million if an interceptor is extended to serve northwest Wayne County and southwest Oakland County. The sewer will carry waste water to a new sewage treatment plant to be built at the mouth of the Huron River.

Elements of the Super Sewer project to be discussed by the Sumpter Planning Commission on Feb. 3 include:

- SUMPTER TOWNSHIP
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
- Overview of Huron Valley Wastewater Control System
 - Van Buren/Sumpter Arm Interceptor
 - Sumpter Township Alternatives:
 - No action
 - Huron River Interceptor capacity,

but no Township service

- Huron River Interceptor capacity with limited Township service
- Huron River Interceptor capacity with increased Township service using additional local collector sewers
- Estimated Project Construction Costs, Including Township Share
- Potential Means of Financing Township Share Costs
- Township-wide mileage 0-4 mills
- Front-Foot Assessment Amortized over 30 year bond issue

- Tap-in Fee $1,000.00-$2,000.00/Tap
- User Charge $20.00-$60.00/Quarter
- House Lead Individual Cost

Informational materials are available for inspection in the Township Clerk's Office during normal working hours.

Written comments from those unable to attend the hearing in person may be addressed to the attention of the Planning Commission Chairman, Sumpter Township Hall, 23480 Sumpter Road, Belleville.

Court injunction

Roadblock set up for WCRC's union

A challenge from Wayne County Commissioner George F. Killeen, State Senator John C. Hertel and the president and vice-president of the County Charter Commission has at least temporarily stopped further organization of a new union tentatively formed for labor contract bargaining in behalf of management officials of the County Road Commission.

A temporary restraining order to that effect was issued on Jan. 13 by Circuit Court Judge Harold Hood. The order postpones further action until a hearing scheduled for Jan. 28 to assess the legality of a move allegedly meant to protect high-level road commission jobs from changes possible under the new County Charter approved by voters in November that takes effect in January 1983.

Joining Killeen and Hertel in the suit are George E. Ward and Justine Barnes, respectively the president and vice-president of the Charter Commission which drafted new rules and responsibilities that the proposed union is said to violate.

Purportedly, the new union negotiated a six-year contract with the three-member Road Commission which guarantees 70-some management positions unchanged in that duration.

Each job involved would continue pay at more than $35,000 and the highest would exceed $60,000, all of them excluding fringe benefits. The plaintiffs in the suit claim that the proposed agreement violates conditions of the new County Charter and the statute establishing that charter by trying to circumvent authority allowed a chief county executive officer in those provisions.

Current with the suit is a request from County Board Chairman Samuel A. Turner asking the Road Commission to halt further implementation of the agreement until the County Board of Labor Relations reviews the proposed contract and reports to the Board of Commissioners.

Although they operated semi-autonomously with their own separate budget, members of the Road Commission are appointed by the Board of Commissioners.

A potential conflict of interest is the concern of Turner and the plaintiffs in the suit, they said. Officials at that level should primarily be concerned with management interests, not employee interests, and they emphasize that in government the management interest is the public interest.

Scuba classes offered at Cherry Hill

Would you like to go scuba diving in the Caribbean this summer, or in the Great Lakes this summer?

You can—if you take the winter scuba diving course from the Ford Seahorses.

The course starts next week and runs for 8 weeks. The classes are at Cherry Hill High School, from 6-10 p.m. The $80 fee includes the book, pool fee, PADI certificate, and the checkout dive.

All of the instructors and personnel are members of the Ford Seahorses Scuba Diving Club. The two PADI (Professional Association of Diving Instructors) certified instructors are Pat Whitworth of Westland, and David Trotter of Canton.

The Ford Seahorses, now in their 27th year, are well established in the diving community. The club itself is made up of members of varied backgrounds, all with an interest in safe sport diving, from beginners, to some of the most successful "shipwreck hunters" in the area.

As a club, they conduct many varied activities, including chartered dives throughout the dive season, parties, social activities, and an annual Road Rally. They also sponsor the Great Lakes Shipwreck Film Festival, held at Ford World Headquarters every spring.

The meetings are open to the public. They are held on the third Wednesday of each month, at 7:30 p.m., at the Ford Scientific Lab & Research Center.

For more information, call Pat Whitworth—326-8597, Keith Gattis—697-3244, Ray Berch—697-9442, or Tony Gramer—561-8393.

Superbowl has its own U.S. Postal station

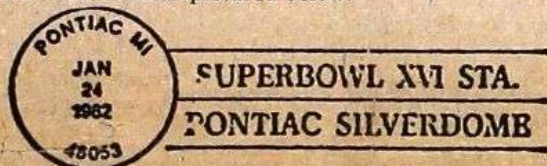

For the first time in the history of the Superbowl Games, the U.S. Postal Service has been authorized to establish a temporary postal station on the site to commemorate the event.

Superbowl XVI Station has been made possible through the cooperative efforts of the National Football League and the Pontiac Silverdome Authority.

This special station is without precedent in either Superbowl or Postal Service history and promises to be extremely well received by the public.

Superbowl XVI Station will be located at the Pontiac Silverdome on Jan. 24, 1982. The station will be in the East Entrance Ticket Office on the Main Concourse.

Hours of operation will conform to Silverdome Superbowl hours. Of primary importance to the public will be the special commemorative cancellation pictured below.

This special cancellation will be available on a "hand-back" basis to those who are authorized entrance to the Silverdome on the 24th. Mail-in requests will be accepted, as well. Mail-in requests must be received at the Pontiac Post Office no later than January 24, 1982. (Because of a technical error, there may be no national publicity on this cancellation and the acceptance date deadline may be extended. You will be advised.)

Mail-in requests should be sent to: Superbowl XVI Station, Postmaster, Pontiac MI 48056-9998.

In addition to the special cancellation, regular issue and commemorative stamps will be available. Postal stationery such as envelopes and postal cards will be sold, as well. All currently available philatelic items will be available for purchase on site.

Your cooperation and assistance in publicizing this Superbowl XVI Station is requested and will be appreciated. Please contact your local news media and make this information available to them. If you should need any additional information, please contact Belleville Post Office at 697-8004 or Bob Karpinski, Postmaster, Postal Superbowl Consultant, Dearborn Hts., MI 48127; or Wilmore "Pete" Green, Postmaster, Pontiac MI 48056, Phone 388-4511.

PRECAUTIONS FOR PARTIAL DENTURES

A partial denture is a removable appliance that substitutes for one or several missing natural teeth. It is held in place by clasps that grip the natural teeth adjacent to the partial.

Good oral hygiene habits are particularly important for wearers of partial dentures. If food residue and film are allowed to accumulate on clasps (which are food traps) the important abutment teeth may decay. Therefore, partials should be cleaned after each meal and special attention should be given to cleaning the inside of the clasps. While you're at it, clean your regular teeth to remove any food debris that could accumulate under the cover afforded by the partial denture. If a partial denture breaks or becomes damaged in any way, it should be taken at once to the dentist for repair. Attempts to wear a damaged appliance can be dangerous. A shift of a fraction of a millimeter in the form of the partial can cause destructive forces on several teeth. Also, an improper amateur adjustment could possibly render the partial completely useless and irreparable by anyone.

It's incredible

With Carrie VanBuren cast in the lead role of Maria (at left) and Jeffrey A. Schmidt as the prince, the Wayne Community Players will stage "The Incredible Journey of Fenda Maria" at the Old Sumpter School gym in Sumpter. Curtain-time for the 2-act Saturday play is 8 p.m. and tickets for $2.50 may be purchased at the Enhance Health Food Center on Main Street in Belleville. The show, directed by John Anthony March, follows Maria as she crosses the terrible jungle to awaken the Sleeping Prince and save a village which has been bewitched by none other than the wicked witch. A narrator, John F. Contracts signed

Road patrol resumes Metro Airport security

Contracts were signed last week restoring a road patrol function of the Wayne County Sheriff's department along with a security detail at the Detroit-Wayne County Metropolitan Airport.

Both units were dropped from the county budget in November, 1980, and after a year-long series of lawsuits with some aspects still pending, both were restored without cost to the county treasury.

Previously the operations cost the county between $5 and $8 million annually for services provided by about 250 officers and support staff.

The new agreement allows rehiring of only 42 deputies immediately, but it also permits the department to negotiate their services with various municipalities in the county and to charge sufficient fees making the service self supporting.

All contracts must finally be approved by the Board of Commissioners, however.

Together with signing of the contracts, a withdrawal of pending lawsuits and court appeals by the deputies will trigger release of checks for overtime pay accumulated since last December when officers continued working despite elimination of their positions from the budget. The overtime pay will approximate a million dollars.

On Thursday last week, while sitting as the Ways and Means Committee, the commissioners postponed decision on reallocation of funds for 40-hour training of officers staffing the jail in downtown Detroit.

In that decision, the commissioners asked for more time to study the impact of the new contracts restoring the road patrol and airport details.

Since elimination of these units, many formerly employed there were transferred to the jail or took jobs elsewhere. When some of those now at the jail are returned to the airport or road patrol, new jailer replacements will need training.

School board studies assessment scores

Dr. Warren Williams of Eastern Michigan University presented an analysis of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program scores at the Romulus Community Schools Board of Education meeting, held January 11.

The tests are given every year in September to 4th, 7th, and 10th grade students throughout the state.

Dan Murray, the district test coordinator and Dr. William Bedell will evaluate the scores.

Parents who wish to know how their child scored on the tests may request that information from their child's teacher or counselor.

In other action, the School Board refused to change the athletic eligibility policy. The current policy requires both a 2.0 GPA and that a student receive no "E's" on a given report.

The administration had suggested that the GPA be kept but the second part of the policy be changed.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to the following retirees: Eleanor Dean Anderson (teacher) Ruby Johnson (hall monitor) and James Parker (carpenter).

Capitalizes on turnovers

State-ranked AA Huron humbles Romulus cagers

By ERIC GEARNES
Special Writer

The eighth ranked basketball team in the state, Ann Arbor Huron, took advantage of 13 of 22 Romulus turnovers and defeated the Eagles 76-60 last week.

While the game was closer during the contest than the score would indicate, the Eagles practically handed away the game with their turnovers.

That erratic ballhandling, coupled with a powerful Huron fast-break, proved too much for Coach Al Wilkerson's Eagle ballclub to handle.

The River Rats also played an outstanding defensive game, holding Romulus leading scorer Bobby Stewart to just six point for the game, 15 points under his season average.

The Eagles continued to get good play out of Troy Gray who tossed in five field goals and shot a perfect eight-for-eight from the charity stripe to account for his team high of 18 points.

Bill McNeil and Troy Williams also managed double figure performances for the losers, garnering 14 and 10 respectively.

On the Ann Arbor side of the tally sheet, the River Rats put four in double figures with Fred McEwen leading the way with 19 points.

The game was close most of the way with Romulus pulling to within three points with a little less than four minutes remaining in the game.

But three consecutive Eagle turnovers were converted into baskets and McEwen turned in a three point play to give the River Rats an insurmountable lead.

The Eagles must now bind up their wounds and prepare for a very tough Friday contest, as they play host to powerful Flint Southwestern.

"Southwestern is a very quick ballclub and they played very well against number two ranked Flint Central, so we are going to have to make fewer mistakes and get a little more consistency," said Wilkerson.

The loss to Huron dropped the Eagle record to 5-4 for the season while Southwestern was sporting a 5-2 mark at presstime.

Debs resigns as police commander

Van Buren official cites 'media harassment'

Ending a week-long suspense and a three-month controversy, Police Commander Richard Debs submitted his resignation last Tuesday to the Van Buren Board of Trustees. The Board unanimously accepted the resignation.

Ironically, Debs' resignation came on the eve of a report from the State Police Department which stated that the department's investigation into Debs' past showed that he "had no criminal record."

The investigation was prompted by the Van Buren Board because board members wanted to "clear the air about Debs' past." Debs has had brushes with the law in which he was accused of impersonating a police officer and possessing two Michigan driver's licenses, bearing his photo but with different names.

Debs, 44, was appointed to the police commander's position on Nov. 10, reportedly triggering the early retirement of ex-police chief George Montgomery.

In his written statement to the board, Debs stated that he was reluctant to resign because he had not reached all of his goals.

"I want it to be clear in everyone's mind that I am doing so (resigning) at this time with reluctance first of all because I have not yet achieved all of the goals I have set for the department, and because of coercion, intimidation and harassment of the Board members and myself by the news media."

Debs was appointed to the part-time police force as a patrolman and was named commander for his administrative abilities on Nov. 10. During Debs' brief and controversial tenure as police commander his department managed to break up three burglary rings, and the breaking and entry rate is down from 12 per day to seven per week, he told the Board.

However, Debs' past apparently managed to come back to haunt him and his

New Kelsey Hayes manager named

The appointment of Donald L. Justen as plant manager of the Mt. Vernon, Ohio, brake plant is announced by Robert G. Siefert, operations vice president, automotive operations, Kelsey-Hayes Company, a subsidiary of Fruehauf Corporation.

Born in McHenry, Illinois, Justen, 35, earned a BS degree at Bradley University, Peoria, before joining the Kelsey-Hayes management training program in 1969.

Prior to this appointment he held various positions including plant engineer, assistant plant superintendent and plant superintendent at the firm's Jackson, Michigan facilities.

Active in the Society of Manufacturing Engineers, Junior Achievement and other organizations, Justen and his family will be relocating to Mt. Vernon from their home in Jackson.

The Mt. Vernon plant supplies disc and drum brake assemblies to the major North American automobile and truck manufacturers.

Debs' resignation "because he (Debs) is no longer able to effectively do his job. "I still believe a person is innocent in our society until he is proven guilty," Welty stressed, "however, Debs couldn't effectively do the job under these circumstances."

Want to square dance?

Square dancers from across Michigan will flock to Belleville on Friday when Atchinson Ford hosts its inaugural "Square Dance". The dancing will get underway at 7 p.m. and Ron Seins is the caller. The Ford dealership is located at 9800 Belleville Rd. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Skip Andersen at 697-9161.

Banish bad habits

You have nothing to lose but bad habits if you attend a stop smoking or weight control hypnosis clinic sponsored by the Belleville-Van Buren Jaycees.

You will be offered the $35 fee back after the first of three hypnotic inductions featured in each one-session clinic. If you feel hypnosis will not work for you, you've lost nothing but a few moments of your time. If it works, you will join the hundreds of Michigan residents who've successfully stopped smoking and lost weight with these popular clinics.

The stop smoking clinic will be at 7 p.m. and the weight control clinic at 9 p.m. on Monday, January 25 at Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler Road in Belleville. To register, call the Jaycees at 697-1361 or 482-6872. You can also register by calling the Self Psych office, toll free, at 1-800-482-2467.

Clinical Hypnotist David Rowe, formerly a motivational trainer for the Dale Carnegie program, will conduct the clinics. Rowe was trained in hypnosis by Dr. Paul Adams and Hypnotherapist James H. Hoke.

The Self Psych clinics have been offered for the American Lung Association affiliates in 74 cities in 11 states and for community programs throughout Michigan.

'Heavenly Deception'

Baptists to view film on Unification Church

Emmanuel Baptist Church of Belleville will host "Heavenly Deception"—a true story—at 6 p.m., Sun., Jan. 24, at its facility located at 960 E. Huron River Drive in Belleville.

"Heavenly Deception" is the true story of Chris

Elkins' journey from the college campus to the inner workings of the Unification Church.

Elkins was the typical "All-American" boy—a senior in college, on the dean's honor list, president of his fraternity. He could have been the boy next door. He could have been your best friend. He could have been your son.

Then he joined the Unification Church.

Although raised in a Christian family and attending church regularly, Chris never grew in his faith. He still had questions.

Then one day in college, Chris met a man, someone who seemed to have the answers; a man who directed him to a church of love, care, and concern—a church of unification. Chris became a "Moonie."

But it wasn't long before he sensed something wrong, a sort of deception, a Heavenly Deception, where the end justified the means. A standard that was promoted and encouraged within the Unification Church—from the kids selling flowers on the street corners all the way to the highest echelon.

In 12 years of producing over thirty Christian films, Evangelical Films has never offered a film with more impact on parents and young people.

NOTICE TO SUMPTER TOWNSHIP RESIDENTS

In accordance with the guidelines of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Sumpter Township will be holding a public hearing in order to receive input and suggestions from residents on the possible use of the Township's 1982-1985 Community Development Block Grant Funds. This hearing will be held on Tuesday, January 26, 1982 at 7:30 p.m. at the Sumpter Township Hall, 23480 Sumpter Road, Belleville, Michigan. All suggestions will be considered and eligible projects will be decided upon by the Sumpter Township Board.

This is a public meeting.

Excess fat? This hypnotist could show you how to reduce

A one-night weight loss clinic through hypnosis will be offered by the Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation Department on Fri. Jan. 22 from 7 - 10 p.m. at Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler Road.

Hypnotist Pat Tinney will present her stress reduction and self-hypnosis techniques for achieving goals.

"Reinforcing weight loss and modifying eating habits are the obvious points we work with," Ms. Tinney said, "but we will also cover preparing to lose weight, adhering to one's new eating habits, and becoming aware of diet sabotage."

Having lost 33 pounds herself with hypnosis, the Detroit area hypnotist personally advocates the use of self-hypnosis as a reinforcement tool.

After clients are made more aware of the stress and tension in their lives, they are then shown how to reduce it and deal with it.

"When we remove the cause, often stress or lack of confidence, we can remove the effect, the bad habit of over-eating," states Ms. Tinney. "By leaving the clinic with knowledge of stress reduction and self-hypnosis, those attending will have the tools they can take home for continued use."

A graduate of the Ethical Institute of Hypnosis, S. Orange, N.J., Ms. Tinney has researched the reduction of corporate stress through hypnosis at the University of Detroit and is instructor of self-hypnosis at the Redford Union school district. Among her lectures have been features at the Autorama, Masonic Temple, Parents without Partners, the University of Detroit, the Pontiac Business College, the American Management Society and a variety of chamber of commerce and service club functions.

Brochures on hypnosis and weight control are now available at the Parks & Recreation office where registration may be completed. Reinforcement cassette tapes will be on sale at the clinic for a nominal fee. The cost for this weight loss clinic is $25 per person.

For further information, please call the Recreation Department at 699-2001.

Rugs, rats & ankle biters

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Ernest Sorini is chief of Emergency Room Services at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. He served his internship and residency at the University of Utah Medical Center and has been in emergency medicine for five years. If you have health questions for Dr. Sorini, contact him care of Associated Newspapers Inc., P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Michigan 48184.

By Dr. Ernest Sorini

Rug rats and ankle biters — if these sound like the potential objects of the Man from Orkin to you, you are not conversant with the vernacular of many people who are hidebound by their perception of children.

That's right folks — these pejorative terms are commonly used to refer to children.

Nothing is quite so galling to me as to have a stranger at the shopping mall where I walk with my twin two-year olds casually quip, sotto-voce, "double-trouble!"

Perhaps this sensitivity on my part is a bit unreasonable, but it does reflect a great concern that I have regarding our attitudes toward children in this country. This preconscious derision of children by seemingly benevolent people is what I refer to as, Childism — just like racism or sexism.

That is, many people assume that because children are young and helpless in many ways they are inferior in their social status as human beings and, as such, can be thought of as simply personal possessions or impediments to success and comfort.

The point of bringing up this subject at this time is that January is the worst month of the year for physical abuse of children. This includes all sorts of physical abuse, ranging from beating to sexual abuse.

It seems that those times characterized by crowding indoors and high unemployment are the times during which the threat of violence towards children and others are greatest.

In addition, the extra bills which the Christmas and holiday season brings to parents add to the anxiety and frustration of parents in January. In this sense, Detroit could assuredly be characterized as, "an accident waiting to happen", since our unemployment statistics coupled with our inclement winter weather are unequaled anywhere, with the exception of my hometown, Butte, Montana, which has been referred to as the "meanest, toughest, dirtiest, coldest city in America" (and that was by the Chamber of Commerce).

If you feel you are losing your temper with your children enough that you feel out of control, the first thing you might try is putting yourself and child in separate rooms temporarily.

Many children have been maimed and even killed by a single blow from an out of control parent.

Another thing you can try, is calling a friend, relative, doctor, hospital emergency room, or community crisis center when you feel you are losing control to the point where you might harm your children physically. This momentary distraction may be all you need to cool off, and may prevent you from doing irreparable harm to your child.

Finally, if you know of cases or strongly suspect that children are being abused, please report this to the police or other authorities, as you may be saving someone's life — something that medicine, in general, and this article in particular, continue to strive to accomplish.

Grooms follow variety of national customs in formalwear

Throughout the annals of man it has been customary for grooms to don their most splendid raiment for their wedding ceremonies, according to the American Formalwear Association.

Of course, the higher the rank and the greater the wealth of the groom, the more splendid was his garb.

However, even the lowliest wore their "best" for their nuptials and, if possible, made sure that their wedding garments differed in some degree from their everyday clothes.

In biblical times, grooms of the elite wore exquisite robes made of fine linens and lawns shot through with threads of silver and gold and bordered with intricate embroidery.

As there were no "formal colors" in those days, those robes could range anywhere from pure white to jewel-like hues of brilliant red, blue, yellow and green.

The only colors eschewed were purple, which was reserved for wear by royalty, and black which then was only worn for mourning.

The use of brilliantly colored formalwear declined during the early Greek and Roman eras.

Both in Athens and in Rome the elect wore pure white, sometimes bordered in friezes of gold and silver to differentiate them from the slaves and craftsmen.

As the Roman Empire came to dominate the then-known world, its mode of dress set the standard for all of what we now know as Europe with the exception of Scandinavia.

The next important change in wedding attire occurred after the fall of the Roman Empire and during the medieval period when the chivalric orders, the kingdoms and the duchies held sway over all of Europe.

At that time, the royalty, the knights and the nobles wore splendid wedding attire of fine silks and velvets.

Those exquisite fabrics, many of which were either embroidered or quilted, were often worn in conjunction with dress armor which was either intricately chased or studded with coats of arms.

The elite didn't wear trousers, but rather long hose of colored fine cotton.

It was during the Renaissance, particularly in the Latin countries, that grooms decked themselves in great splendor. Silks, brocades and velvets in virtually every color of the rainbow were worn.

The dress swords worn with those outfits were actually works of art, examples of which can be seen in modern museums.

In the late 18th century, Beau Brummel, a young officer in the British 10th Hussars and a close friend of the Prince of Wales who later became George IV, was known at Court as a perfectionist in manners and dress, and he became the style-setter for the English.

His dress influence eventually affected all of Europe, and to some degree its effect is reflected in modern menswear, particularly in formalwear.

Up to the time of Beau Brummel, the custom of wearing gaily colored formalwear was firmly established.

It probably reached its peak at the French court where satins, velvets and brocades were embellished with lace, expensively buckled shoes and the powdered wigs which then marked the attire of the gentry.

However, Brummel revolutionized formalwear when he appeared at court dressed in stark black, relieved only by white shirt and white bow tie.

His only ornamentation was jeweled shirt studs, cuff links and rings. His tailcoat was essentially the same as those worn today except that it was of silk.

The tail-less evening jacket cut along the lines of the modern business suit was introduced by Griswold Lorillard at Tuxedo Park, N.Y., in 1886.

Thus was born the "Tuxedo." For some time the tuxedo was thought of as a novelty not to be worn at affairs where ladies were present.

To this day, the French refer to the tux or dinner jacket as "Le Smoking." Of course, the dinner jacket (tux) is now considered to be eminently correct for wear at events which ladies attend.

In the strictest interpretation of the rules of dress, the tuxedo is considered to be "semi-formal" — "formal" indicating that white tie and tails are required for evening wear.

For daytime formal weddings, the "cutaway coat" and gray striped trousers are correct.

The "stroller" (a dark gray coat cut like a business suit) worn with gray striped trousers is accepted for daytime semi-formal weddings.

In Mexico, some grooms wear white intricately embroidered and pleated "wedding shirts" in lieu of a jacket, topping off white pants.

A similar style of wedding dress is used in the Philippines, too. In parts of Europe such as Scotland, Bavaria, Hungary, Poland and the cantons of Switzerland, it is not uncommon for both brides and grooms to wear their traditional native costumes for wedding ceremonies.

At home in the United States, the groom has the option of going contemporary and wearing colors other than black or gray — some prefer a choice of many pastel shades in both tuxedos and tailcoats — or abiding by the traditional conservative outfits that have come down through the years from the style of Beau Brummel.

Budget ingenuity

Are you dreaming of that first home together — beautifully furnished, of course — but brought back to earth when you figure out your bank balance?

Many young couples will find themselves in this predicament, because of inflation. But, thanks to those wedding gifts and a few hand-me-downs from Aunt Flo or Cousin Jack, you'll manage to set up housekeeping, after a fashion.

Here's where a little ingenuity can come to the aid of newlyweds on a budget. Can't afford an expensive wall unit? Create your own with particle board cubes, sprayed to suit your decor.

Long for an antique rocker? An unfinished rocker, stained and enhanced with decals will do nicely until the real thing comes along.

No room in the budget for expensive drapes? Choose an interesting (and inexpensive) fabric to hem, sew to rings and hang along a curtain rod.

You can have an outstanding coffee table without breaking the bank — just place a round piece of glass on top of a sturdy base. The more interesting or unconventional the base, the better!

Need a side table ... or a work area? Nothing could be simpler — just take a hollow core door, sawhorse brackets, some 2x4s from your local do-it-yourself store and put together a sturdy, versatile sawhorse table.

You can create a cozy reading corner with any old round table ... just cover it with the prettiest fabric you can find (hem it to look like a tablecloth) set some photographs, along with an antique-looking lamp on top, and you've got a bit of nostalgia.

Here's how to enjoy an attractive area rug without denting the budget: select a nice remnant, then fringe it! Another easy way to make an area rug is to set carpet tiles on a sturdy fabric such as artists canvas.

A visit to your local do-it-yourself emporium and a treasure hunt through a few second-hand stores can help you fill in the gaps and complete the snug little nest for two.

Say it with flowers

Since ancient times when bunches of herbs were carried by brides under their veils, flowers have been an integral part of the wedding ceremony.

Traditionally, they were symbols of fertility, however many flowers also have significances all their own.

The rose is a symbol of love, the orchid of beauty and the carnation of dis-tion. The white daisy symbolizes innocence and the orange blossom, purity and loveliness. Blue violets symbolize faithfulness, and the blue bell, constancy.

Forget-me-nots mean true love, lily of the valley, happiness. The white lilac is a symbol of youthful innocence, red chrysanthemums of sharing, and the gardenia of joy.

Experts suggest that you consult a florist at least one month in advance, and decide on colors and price. Also, make sure you find out what flowers will be in season, since these will cost less.

Don't forget flowers for the mother of the bride and the groom's mother, boutonnieres for the men, bouquets for any female attendants and flowers for the altar and reception hall.

The groom who chooses a formal by designer Bill Blass is destined to win his share of admiring glances during the wedding festivities. Blass redefines the shawl collar in gleaming satin and revives the cummerbund to create an impression of easy elegance for spring '82. The wing collar shirt with diagonal pleats is accessory news from After Six. Jacket available in silver with matching trousers or white with black trousers.

Russell's celebrates anniversary

A third color is now challenging the popular white and black in men's formal attire, note the fashion experts at Russell's Formalwear.

Gray has grown in popularity during the past year as formal attire begins to revert to the classic styles and traditional approach, they note.

A diverse selection of gray tones and styles, ranging from silver gray in regular suit length and tails to oxford gray and stripe trousers with matching cutaway models, are featured at Russell's.

Other in-style fashions this season include: plain white shirts in plain pleated and wing collars, and the shawl collar tuxedo, offered in a number of colors.

Russell's, in its 66th year of business as the oldest existing formalwear rental company in the United States, is celebrating its fourth anniversary in the Detroit market. Among its celebration special savings is a group of more than 20 fashions for $36.95, including formal shoes. The groom receives his formal rental free with a party of six or more.

Stocking more than 100,000 garments locally, Russell's is located in the Art Van Plaza on Eureka Road across from the Southland Mall in Taylor and also features outlets in Madison Heights, Livonia and Southfield.

Beginning a lifetime commitment

Tradition, romance make perfect wedded pair

Echoing the recent return to romance and tradition, this exquisite gown designed by Michele Piccione for Alfred Angelo boasts billowing bishop sleeves, gracefully swirling skirt.

"I do" — two words which, as frequently as they are repeated, signify at the same time, a beginning and an end. In front of the couple being married, a wedded life looms not unnaturally large.

For, implicit in the two simple words both have repeated, is a world of commitments, decisions and promises — two lives have joined, a truly momentous occasion.

And, behind the newlyweds, lie not only the path of their courtship and their own formative years and experiences, but aggregated centuries of traditions and customs, years fraught with hope and thought for the future that have led to the moment of joining — for every couple the world over who meet, fall in love, and marry.

Falling in love seems such a simple thing — we have developed a picture of it, thanks to an endless sequence of books, movies and songs, in which all of the complications have been romanticized out.

The actuality, as young people meeting with it for the first time discover over and over again as one generation succeeds the next, is far richer and far more complicated, liberally endowed with all the ambiguities in which life delights.

Interestingly enough, all the people who have painted love in such vivid and simple colors, do not attempt to "fool" their public on the subject of weddings.

With all the planning that goes into them, all the celebration they occasion and all the people they involve, it is to be expected that they should be as convoluted and complicated as life itself.

Right off the bat, centuries of tradition present themselves for reckoning. Customs — from carrying the bride over the threshold of her new home to the throwing of rice at the newly married pair — must be observed, as age-old superstition rears its head.

And, indeed, these customs give a tone to the wedding, a sense of continuity that young and old alike find satisfying.

Many of the complications arise during the planning stage, which often lasts several months.

The trick, and it is a trick, is to arrive at a game plan for The Wedding which takes into account the likes, dislikes, whims and prejudices of everyone involved, not only bride and groom but their immediate families, as well.

First, decisions must be made as to where and when the wedding will be held; how large the guest list will be and who will be invited; whether it is to be an afternoon or an evening event, and how formal it will be; what colors the bridal party will wear.

As the big day approaches, other questions arise: from who will sit with whom to what tunes the organist will play during the processional.

It is a tribute to the strong bonds of love which unite the various individuals involved, that ultimately all is accomplished in a spirit of good will and harmony.

The wedding itself is a joyous as it is solemn, an event truly befitting the months of planning and concern. As well it should be, since it contains within itself the twin virtues of reverence for the past and hope for the future. It is, truly, a celebration of life.

Pointers for 1st party

For newlyweds, giving that first party can cause almost as many jitters as taking those first steps down the aisle. But elegant entertaining doesn't have to be traumatic — or expensive. Here are some pointers from experts:

Dina Merrill says, "In planning a party, always invite some guests who haven't met all the others. It helps assure an interesting conversation mix."

Columnist Harriet Van Horne warns, "No dinner served under the hot-white glare of a 1,000 watt chandelier can possibly be elegant. Get out those candles!"

Her favorite dinner is a serve-yourself Beef Stroganoff, into which she stirs an elegant finishing touch, three tablespoons of cultured sour cream and a splash of vodka.

Celeste Holm recommends, "Create an elegant luncheon party around a dish that's unpredictable — like an Indian egg curry."

House Beautiful decorating editor Mary Emmerling advises, "Placecards are elegant. Think of new and fun ways to let your guests know where you want them to sit, like a tagged gift or flower at each place setting."

And for elegance in table settings she uses one big wine glass no matter what she's serving.

These are just a few of the lively entertaining ideas in a new 16-page booklet called "Bringing New Elegance to the '80s." It's a free publication, published as a consumer service by the U.S. offices of Finlandia Vodka, and it's a perfect hostess-helper for newlyweds.

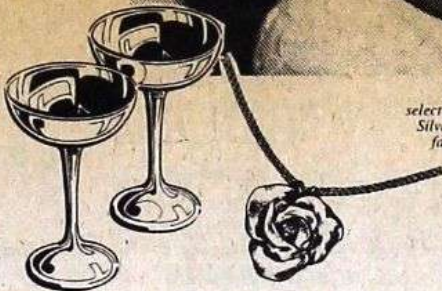

For instance, Chip Tolbert, fashion director of the Men's Fashion Association, warns, "Never serve drippy hors d'oeuvres. They're disastrous to both clothes and carpets. And have enough hangers—guests don't appreciate having their coats heaped on a bed."

Other elegant party ideas and recipes by modern experts are in the pointer-packed booklet.

For a complimentary copy, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Finlandia Elegance, P.O. Box 1058, FDR Station, New York, NY 101501058.

11. Supervisor's Report - Reeves

Agenda Item "F"

12. Engineer's Report - Wilhelmi

Advised the Board of the necessity of establishing a Public Hearing on Block Grant Funds. Brought the Board up to date on the illegal filling on Willis Road. Suggested the Board declare a moratorium on all filling operations except those approved by the Board after review by the Planning Commission. Discussed the Willow Road ditching improvement program. Recommends that the Township Board pass a Resolution authorizing the Supervisor to send a communication to the Wayne County Road Commission that the Township of Sumpter is requesting the Wayne County Road Commission to give assurances, in writing, that no surface run-off and/or subsurface groundwater which has come in contact with the fill portion of the landfill area, will be allowed to enter any of their road ditches either along Elwell or Willow Road.

Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume to authorize Attorney to send communication to the proper persons with regard to the water run-off. Motion and support withdrawn. Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume to authorize the Engineer to draft letter to Wayne County Road Commission to be sent through the Clerk's Office. Motion carried unanimously.

Investigated the complaint on flooding at Carleton-West Road and Haggerty. Reviewed the condition of the road ditches on the Northwest corner of Sumpter and Willow Roads. Reported on the culvert problem at the corner of Oakville-Waltz and Karr Roads. Recommended that the Contract be awarded to Joseph Chie Contracting Company in the amount of $52,162.50 and the Supervisor and Clerk be authorized to sign for Township. Motion by Duey, supported by Morgan to accept Engineer's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

13. Attorney's Report - Witthoff

Advised the Board they are a defendant in a new lawsuit by Mrs. E. Rollins, in small claims court, along with the contractor. Also to discuss Agenda Item B under New Business.

Motion by Duey, supported by Morgan to accept Attorney's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

Dan Welch did not wish to speak on this item at this time.

14. Old Business

A. Motion by Bevins, supported by Morgan to award contract for 1981-1982 Drain Cleanout Program on Willow, Martinsville and Wear Roads to Joseph Chie Contracting Company, in the amount of $52,162.50 and the Supervisor and Clerk be authorized to sign for Township. Motion carried unanimously.

B. Fire Chief Rochon spoke on the need for Radio equipment, vehicles for bid and form that is necessary for persons to sign that request a building burned by the Fire Department.

Fire Commissioner Morgan recommended the rate of pay for firemen increase from $9.00 per hour to $12.00 for 1st hour and $4.00 per hour for overtime hours. Also that Firemen be reimbursed for lost wages if they have to appear in court and are not reimbursed by their employer. The last two recommendations be included in the next budget.

Motion by Morgan, supported by Huziak that the Fire Department Budget be adjusted by transferring $1,900.00 from the General Fund Contingency (101-958-002) to Fire Department Contractual Services (101-333-801) to allow for rate increase from $9.00 to $12.00 first hour. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Morgan, supported by Bevins to grant Firemen from $3.00 to $4.00 per hour for overtime hours and reimburse wages for court appearances when not covered by their employer. To be effective next fiscal year. Motion carried unanimously.

15. *1. David Callanan was present representing Senator Faust to answer questions of those present regarding the placing of Adult Foster Care Homes in Sumpter Township. Representative Edward Mahalak sent word that he was detained in Monroe with car trouble and would not be able to make the meeting.

Several residents from the Savage Road, Clark Road and Willis Road area were present asking why there was a concentration of homes in their area. The questions asked of Mr. Callanan pertained to mentally handicapped as well as the physically handicapped. How safe are their homes and their children. What about the property tax values. Why are taxpayers having to pay the additional taxes for vehicles to transport the handicapped to local schools. Why are institutional buildings being vacated to place these people in group homes and left to remain idle while utilities are being paid on empty buildings. Residents are also concerned about the supervision of group homes. Are the supervisors well trained. Mr. Callanan did not seem to feel that 13 homes was a high concentration for the Township. Also that the law states they can be located in the Township as long as they are 1500 feet from each other. State law supercedes any Township Zoning Ordinance.

A. Motion by Duey, supported by Morgan to approve payment to Wayne Oakland Library Federation, in the amount of $808.22, reconciliation of estimated costs. Motion carried unanimously.

B. Motion by Bevins, supported by Duey to approve by Resolution the Zoning Ordinance Amendments relating to the use of Manufactured Dwellings in Residential Districts with changes recommended by Attorney. Motion carried unanimously.

C. Motion by Reaume, supported by Morgan to approve quarterly payment to W.M.E.C.N., in the amount of $8,174.75. Motion carried unanimously.

D. Motion by Duey, supported by Morgan to approve January 26, 1982 at 7:30 P.M. as a time and date for a Public Hearing on Block Grand Monies. Motion carried unanimously.

E. Treasurer Duey read communication from Supervisor's Office stating that Sumpter Township is still participating in a CETA Program.

F. Motion by Duey, supported by Reaume to approve the appointment of Walter Chobot and Richard Pukerwinski to the Hazardous Waste Facility Site Approval Board. Motion carried unanimously.

G. Motion by Bevins, supported by Duey to approve the use of the Township Hall by the D.N.R. Site Approval Board January 27, 1982 at 1:30 P.M. for a public meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

H. Motion by Bevins, supported by Morgan allow Township Engineer Wilhelmi to solicit bids to restore culvert for Mrs. Zephre Adams. Motion carried unanimously.

I. Motion by Morgan, supported by Duey to grand Board of Appeals request for Chairman and Secretary to be paid same rate per meeting as Chairman and Secretary of Planning Commission. Rate $25.00 per meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

J. Motion by Bevins, supported by Reaume to table request for pay increase by P. Johnston, Bookkeeper. Motion carried unanimously.

K. Motion by Bevins, supported by Duey to table back pay and rate increase for four non-union employees: L. Barber, G. Bradford, P. Johnston and J. Wyche. Motion carried unanimously.

L. Motion by Duey, supported by Huziak to appoint Joseph R. Skszek as part-time Electrical Inspector to replace Lawrence E. Hillmer. Motion carried unanimously.

M. Motion by Huziak, supported by Morgan to approve purchase by Water Department of 50 3/4" meters at the cost of $46.00 each. Motion carried unanimously.

N. Motion by Huziak, supported by Morgan to approve appointment of Joseph Horvota as part-time Assessor to complete the Personal Property Tax Forms at the rate of $10.00 per hour plus mileage. Motion carried unanimously.

O. Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume to approve payment of 1982 dues to Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, in the amount of $940.00. Motion carried unanimously.

P. Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume to approve purchase of new Radar Equipment by the Police Department, in the amount of $1,695.00. Motion carried unanimously.

Q. Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume to approve the changing of the Work-Shop Meetings from Friday to Thursday and from 5:00 P.M. to 5:30 P.M. Effective immediately. Motion carried unanimously.

R. Motion by Reaume, supported by Morgan to allow Police Chief and Fire Chief permission to solicit bids in writing for needed purchases before submitting request to Board. Motion carried unanimously.

S. Motion by Bevins, supported by Reaume to approve Change Order #1 for construction of Fire Station #2 Driveway and Senior Citizen Parking Lot, in the amount of $688.50, and authorize Supervisor and Clerk to sign. Motion carried unanimously.

T. Taken care of under Old Business, Item B.

*U. Motion by Reaume, supported by Morgan to approve appointment of F. Bevins and M. Huziak to replace J. Reeves and L. Banotai as members of the Police Department Union Negotiating Team. Motion carried unanimously.

16. Warrants

Motion by Duey, supported by Bevins to pay warrants, as mopies becomes available. Motion carried unanimously.

17. Adjournment

Motion by Bevins, supported by Reaume to adjourn. Meeting adjourned at 10:16 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,

2 commissioners to sue over county apportionment plan

Beard, Runco charge 'Holley Plan' doesn't conform to state statutes

Wayne County Commissioners Kay L. Beard (D-Dearborn Heights/Inkster) and William Runco (R-Dearborn Heights/Dearborn) have threatened to sue the County Apportionment Commission over their newly adopted "Holley" Plan that reduces commissioner district from 27 to 15.

Charging the plan does not conform to state statutes, is discriminatory and unfair to several Western Wayne County communities, both commissioners indicated at a joint press conference last week that they have contacted their respective city officials and have received assurances of support.

Other commissioners are also considering legal action including R. William Joyner (D-Plymouth) left with 10 percent of his original district and now forced to compete against Mary E. Duman, a Livonia Republican.

The balance of Joyner's district, which includes the townships of Canton, Van Buren, Sumpter and portions of Westland and Romulus is without an incumbent as is District 8, on Detroit's west side.

The reapportionment plan is the result of a county-wide referendum approved last November in which the public voted to restructure the county under the provisions of a new charter and to elect a county executive to assume fiscal responsibility.

The charter reduces the number of commissioner districts based on the 1980 census and takes effect January 1, 1983.

Among other complaints of Beard and Runco were the lack of a public hearing, failure of the Appeals Court to respond to a request for a 30-day extension to allow submission of other redistricting plans, and the speed with which the five-man Apportionment Commission "railroaded through" the Holley proposal.

"Dearborn Heights, in particular, has been chopped up into three different districts and is a minority in all three," Mrs. Beard said, adding, "Westland is also split into three districts and is a minority in two out of three. Dearborn is divided into two districts and is a minority in both."

Runco, in commenting on Mrs. Beard's statement, said Dearborn and Dearborn Heights have common problems and are on the same economic plane and yet Holley has found it necessary to combine Dearborn and Taylor—totally dissimilar communities with wide variances in income and property values.

In her statement to the press, Mrs. Beard pointed out: "State statutes require that all districts be contiguous, as nearly square as possible and that no township or city be split unless for population purposes and then only to make districts as nearly equal as possible."

"We recognize," she continued, "that in a county as uniquely shaped as Wayne County there would have to be some divisions of a few communities, but the Holley Plan (named after Hubert L. Holley, the Democratic Party representative on the Apportionment Commission) appears to have ignored the fact that the original staff plan managed to leave Dearborn Heights and Westland reasonably intact."

In fact, under the staff plan, Dearborn Heights was wholly contained in one district. When Mr. Holley stated that his concern was to do a better job of apportioning Detroit, one can only wonder why his plan did not also include concern for the Western Wayne County communities.

"Knowing that the Apportionment Commission agreed to ask the Michigan Court of Appeals for a 30-day extension at their January 6th meeting, several concerned persons were, themselves, preparing proposals to be submitted to the commission and were completely shocked when Apportionment commissioners approved the Holley Plan in a speedy Tuesday morning session."

Added Mrs. Beard: "What is equally disturbing is that the Court of Appeals, knowing that January 12th was the deadline if an extension was not requested, did not even extend the courtesy of a reply—one way or another—to the Apportionment Commission's request for an extension."

"I presented this information to the Dearborn Heights Mayor and Council at their regular meeting (Tuesday evening) and the Council has asked the Mayor and City Attorney to make a recommendation to them concerning possible action within two weeks," Commissioner Beard said. "One course of action, under state statutes, would be to file an appeal with the Michigan Court of Appeals within 30 days."

With divorce

Helping your child cope

A series of four group sessions designed to help people cope with divorce is being offered by the Family Counseling Service of the Wayne County Circuit Court.

The sessions are for those exploring divorce, in the divorce process, or who have already divorced.

Bill Lucken, a staff member of the Family Counseling Service will lead the educational group meetings at Redford United Methodist Church, 22400 Grand River at Northrup, four blocks west of Lahser. There is parking in the rear on McIntyre. The meetings will be from 7:30-9:00 P.M., Tuesday evenings beginning February 2, 1982. The cost is $3.00 a night or $10 for the series.

Discussions will focus on the following: February 2, "Coping with Personal and Emotional Turmoil"; February 9, "Dealing with Attorneys and the Court System" (an attorney will be present); February 16, "Helping Your Children Cope"; February 23, "Developing New Social and Interpersonal Relationships." SUMPTER TOWNSHIP NOTICE OF ADOPTION OF AMENDMENTS TO THE SUMPTER TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 35

Amendments to the Sumpter Township Zoning Ordinance text as summarized herein were adopted by the Sumpter Township Board of Trustees on January 12, 1982.

The Sumpter Township Planning Commission held a PUBLIC HEARING at the Sumpter Township Hall, 23480 Sumpter Road, at 8:00 P.M., Wednesday, December 2, 1981, regarding proposed AMENDMENTS TO THE SUMPTER TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE TEXT AS SUMMARIZED BELOW. The Public Hearing was scheduled to provide all interested citizens an opportunity to express opinions, ask questions, and discuss in detail all aspects of the proposed amendments.

Copies of TEXT amendments were available 30 days prior to the Public Hearing for inspection at the Township Hall during regular business hours.

A summary of public comments from such hearing was provided by the Planning Commission to the Township Board of Trustees prior to adoption of the amendments.

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

The proposed amendments include:

- Manufactured dwellings (including mobile home dwellings) included as permitted uses in all residential districts.
- Establishment of classes of manufactured dwellings.
- Establishment of procedures for review and approval of manufactured dwellings.
- General placement, structural, and siting limitation requirements applicable to manufactured dwellings.
- Manufactured dwelling appearance and vicinity compatibility requirements and criteria for making determinations.

These amendments shall become effective immediately upon publication of this Notice of Adoption.

Our Opinions

'Special athletes'

More and more events these days are publicized as being "special" or "super," compliments of Madison Avenue types and media hype.

Sometimes they live up to their advance billing. Often they fail to meet expectations.

One event that does live up to its "special" tag every year is the Special Olympics. Those who participated or visited the Wayne County Special Olympics winter games last Friday at the Wayne Community Center will readily attest to the merits of this outing.

Not even the bitter cold weather could affect the warmth generated by these special athletes as they competed in figure skating, tobogganing, snow sculpturing and various other activities. Of course, coaches, parents and volunteers helped with the festivities — Special Olympics would be a mere dream without these people.

Friday's competition was hosted by the Westland Civitan Club, one of a number of Civitan Clubs which sponsor these games every year. Already plans are in the works for the Summer Olympics in April.

Olympics has become a term that connotes international tension, boycott and ideological strife. It has become a political rather than athletic happening.

How refreshing then to witness an Olympic undertaking based on love, fellowship and participation solely for fun and accomplishment. How refreshing to find volunteers devoting hours upon hours of time to a cause without financial compensation.

And how refreshing to watch these special competitors give it their all attempting feats we take for granted. Some 350 participants entered the winter games and there wasn't a loser in the group.

Yes, these 1982 Wayne County Special Olympics were definitely "special," as will be the Summer Games and all future Special Olympics. No hype is necessary to cover any imperfections because the Special Olympics are perfect in its goals and purpose.

That alone is "special."

Superbowl

Welcome Super Bowl XVI!

We, in Michigan, can certainly use an upbeat spectacle in our state right now. Despite our problems, which we're reminded of everyday, the people of Michigan are becoming well known for their hospitality.

Visitors to this week's Super Bowl festivities will quickly discover what out-of-state visitors to the National Republican Convention discovered earlier—Michigan's people are a friendly, warm host and hostess.

The Host Committee has done a commendable job of preparing for this extravaganza, planning everything from establishment of a New Orleans fun strip to taking precautions should Old Man Winter rear his ugly head come Sunday. It should make for a very entertaining week of activities that will keep Michigan in the national spotlight—and on a positive note for a change.

Those who come here from Cincinnati, San Francisco or wherever will enjoy their stay, we're convinced. The beauty of this state, from its natural resources to its residents, is once again surfacing for national inspection.

We can't control the weather nor the economy. But we in Michigan have control of our sense of dignity and fellowship, as Super Bowl followers will soon find out.

So we welcome everyone associated with Super Bowl XVI.

The Hillenbrand Report

Poignant problems of Penelope Pencilpusher

(EDITOR'S NOTE - This is the second in a two part series that initially appeared in the Jan. 13-14 issue of the Associated Newspapers.)

"Contracting out created fundamental problems in accountability," Kettl said. It "lead to creation of new, permanent municipal agencies to oversee administration of non-city groups."

This new function of local government, contract administration, is not limited to anti-poverty programs. Police and sheriffs' departments contract for halfway houses, the courts have contracts with counselors. Demand for services to the elderly, mentally retarded, mentally ill, alcoholics and drug abusers has led to creation of separate oversight departments within local government. Sometimes the departments contract directly with special interest groups that lobby for service. Their intimacy occasionally smacks of incest. The organizations may receive a combination of federal, state, local and private dollars, but invariably it's the federal dole that increases citizens' expectations, and permits non-profits to proliferate.

In Nassau County (Long Island) N.Y., for example, Senior Citizen

Affairs Director Roberta Figer employs 94 people, few of whom provide direct service. Under frants from the Older Americans Act, they supervise contracts with 25 agencies offering 23 different kinds of care, all necessary — and popular.

Relations between the agencies and the county are excellent. "We couldn't operate without our non-profits," Ms. Figer says proudly. One unusual Nassau County requirement for participating organizations ensures commitment: agencies must contribute additional dollars or services before the county supplies the "matching" funds required by the federal grant.

So far, the Older Americans Act has escaped severe federal budget cutting. Other social services haven't been so fortunate. And now that Washington has chosen to leave the grant business to state and local officials, the Pencilpusher brigade is anxious to learn the new ground rules: some groups accustomed to receiving money directly from the federal government will now have to go through the state and local government. So grantsmen nationwide are launching a full-fledged campaign to win the few remaining dollars. The game plan is subtle and Penelope holds most of the cards, for no elected politician will admit waging battle with the likes of Catholic Charities, Jewish Family Services and Church World Services.

Obviously, local government officials have hard choices. Should they fund Aunt Nellies' homemaker or take away little Gertrude's day care? County budgets are devastated by inflation, tax reform movements and loss of federal funds. Nevertheless, some good programs may disappear while inefficient ones linger. In Allegheny County (Pittsburgh), Pa., for example, a crisis intervention program has folded. Crisis intervention is an adjunct to police work credited with keeping families together and preventing youths from landing in jail. It has been shown to be a moneysaver, but it didn't have a large enough constituency to save it once federal funds expired.

Community organizations without federal funding are also threatened. Since 1955, parents of mentally retarded people in a five-county area near Des Moines have worked to keep their children out of institutions. Today a coordinating unit keeps tabs on 22 community groups that operate an integrated system of education, job training and housing. County officials are proud of it, and most of the funds are local. When the federal government pulls back on money for other services, however, the delicate financial balance of this system may need fine tuning.

Nor are all federally-funded community groups models of efficiency.

In Hillsborough County (Tampa), Fla., three community mental health centers located within miles of each other (each with a Paul, Peter and Pam Pencilpusher), provide similar services. Each will look to local government to help them survive loss of federal funds, and therefore, only recently have they moved to reduce duplication of effort.

In Dade County, Fla., commissioners figure they must cut $47 million in services next year as a result of dwindling federal dollars. Among the options considered was elimination of the local "match" for a mental health center. During one budget hearing the center's clients filled an entire auditorium. Most testified at length on the benefits of mental health care. Because of the public outcry, Dade County commissioners have agreed to continue supporting the center for one more year.

The CETA program, community development, and services to the elderly spoken for the Fact Finder's Report as their final proposal.

A meeting of the Union was held to either accept or reject the City's final offer, whereupon no action was taken. The membership still insisted they wanted City Council to vote on the Fact Finder's Report.

Now, even though they were present and even had a voice in the appointing of a negotiating team for the Union, it is obvious that some Union members are not aware of what the purpose is of a negotiating team, because at the City Council Meeting of January 12, 1982, two Union members approached City Council insisting Council take action on the Fact Finder's Report.

This resulted in City Council merely appointing a member of said Council to the City's negotiating team. This can only result in more time and allow for further economic set-backs.

To date, I have not been notified as to when we will next meet.

I don't know if we will have to go back to "square one" or if we will pick up from the Fact Finder's Report. Will the City honor their last offer, or will they withdraw it?

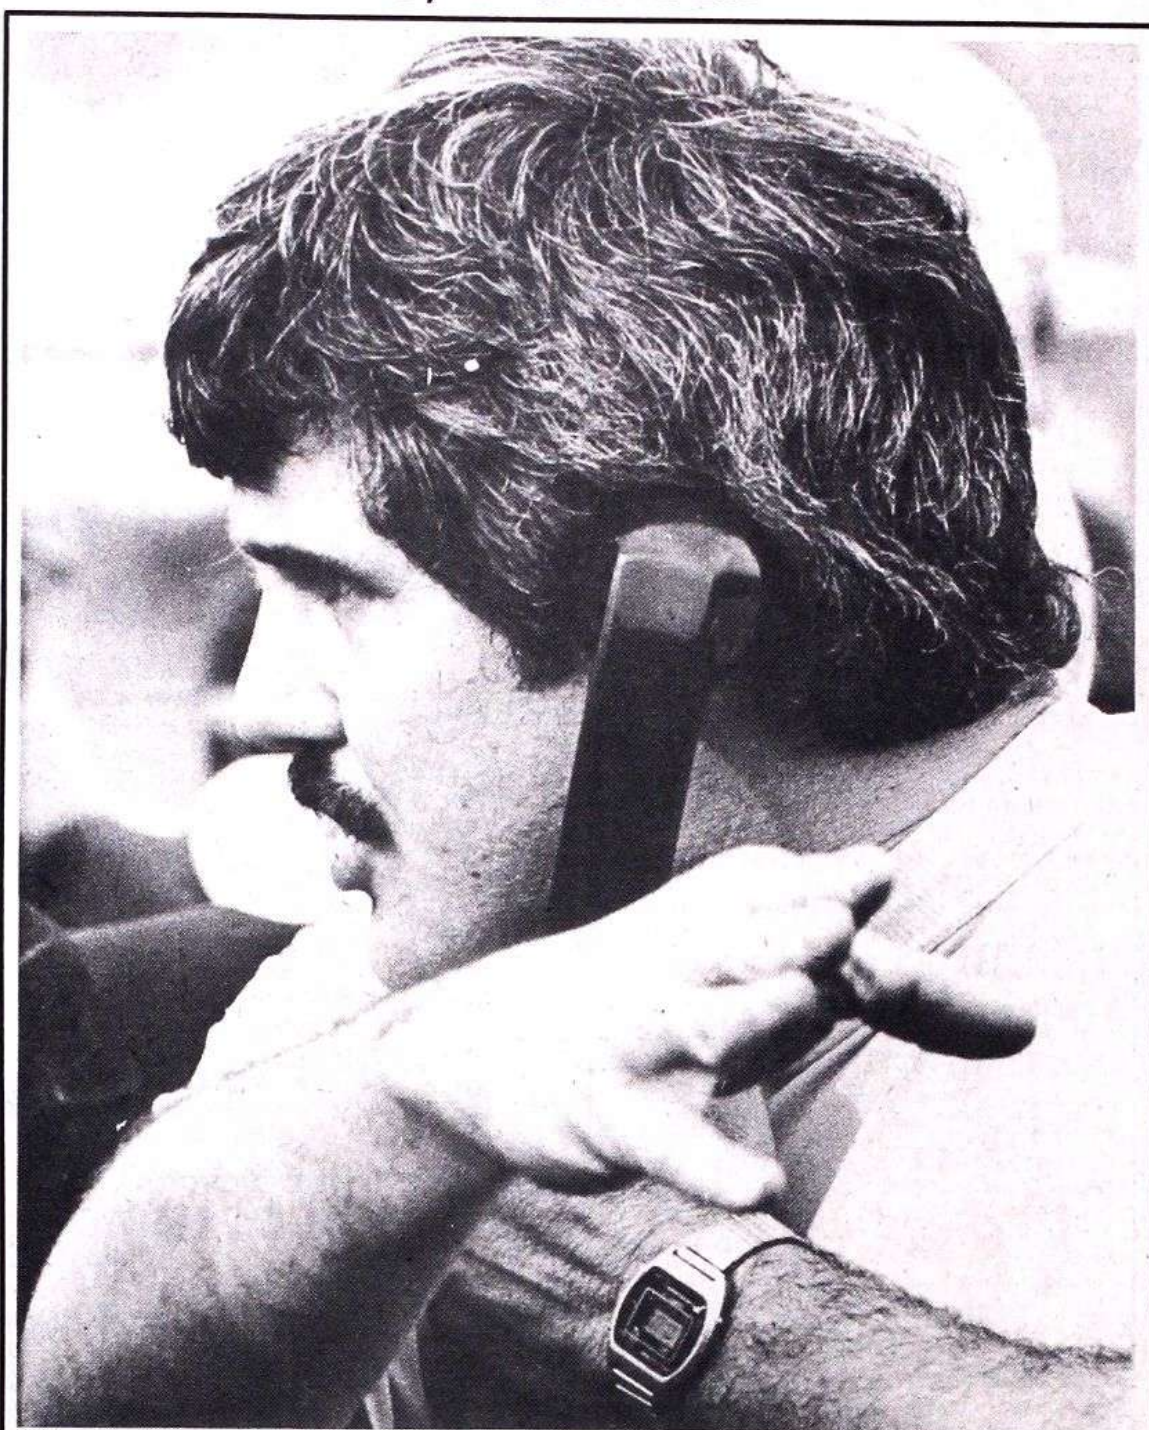

When you speak of "a piece of the pie," I would like to remind you that the City Administration has already found it financially possible to grant pay increases to all its Department Heads and Salaried employees.

The Pay Board will undoubtedly grant all of our Elected Officials substantial pay increases. I would certainly say that these groups of people have obtained their "piece of the pie."

Union rep offers his team's side of contract talks

After reading front page article of January 13, 1982 regarding the status of the City of Romulus' Union employees Contract and after noting the remark that was made with regard to wanting a "bigger piece of the pie," I thought you might want to hear the Union's side of the story, which by the way, should have been sought prior to the writing of the article.

As Chief Union Steward for Teamster's Local 214 as well as an elected member of the negotiating team for the Union, I can state that we have been working for the City without a contract for the past 18 months.

Although we have been negotiating in good faith during this period, it was necessary to go through all the legal steps afforded us; bargaining, negotiating, State Mediation and finally, Fact Finding.

The Fact Finder's Report and Recommendation recognized that our unit was at least $1 per hour below that of comparable surrounding communities, but due to the City's current financial status, recommended only a 50 cents per hour increase, payable retroactive to July, 1980.

This recommendation was unanimously accepted by our local at our December meeting and we then waited for City Council to either accept or reject this same recommendation.

Romulus City Council refused to take any action either for or against the Fact Finder's Report, but suggested the two sides meet once again so that the City's negotiating team could address the issue.

A meeting between the two negotiating teams was held, whereupon the City made a final proposal, which was considerably less than what the Fact Finder's Report proposed. The negotiating team for the Union was then obligated to bring this proposal back to the membership for their perusal, even though the negotiators knew that the membership had already

The Other Side of the Meridian

Contract talks are confusing

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

There is a letter on this page critical at the way our staff handled a front page story about the negotiations between the Teamsters Local 214 and the City of Romulus.

George Simko, Jr., who is chief union steward for that local, has a right to his opinion. And that's why we provided for "Guest Editorial" space.

But, if there is confusion galore reigning over the never-ending, 18-month impasse between his group and the city's negotiating team, it's understandable. The Teamsters want a contract, and the city is willing to oblige but not at all costs.

I've been privileged to hear a couple of the teamsters union members — Glenn Free and Charlotte McBride publicly debate the contract in the council chambers.

And, after hearing their arguments, I can understand the confusion.

First, Mr. Free says he is not in the council chambers as a union representative, but a citizen of Romulus "concerned over the lack of progress between the team negotiating teams, then a few hours later he informs council — and the public — that he is indeed an elected official of the union."

As we sit there taking notes we wonder which Free to believe.

Ms. McBride at least knows who she is. A union member concerned about the lack of a contract. The inability to reach an agreement between the two sides falls on both sides, we believe. One learns from one's experience that usually those who rant and rave however are not ready to listen to reason.

The union realizes the city "doesn't have the money."

Also they aren't helping matters.

Apparently, the union sent in one negotiating team, then switched to another late in the ballgame. That's all right when you're on an athletic field, but when you're negotiating a contract, one team comes back with one set of data; the other has a completely different conception on what is going on.

That's what happened here, according to the dialogue provided in the council chambers. The union sent in one team first, which had a handshake contract, then all of a sudden a second group sneaked in for more talks and there was no agreement.

Confused? I am, so is Council.

We hope the action that Romulus City Council took last Tuesday — appointing Jimmie Raspberry to the city's bargaining team will break the deadlock.

Raspberry, who was brought up in the rank and file of the union, knows the pitfalls of such negotiations. As he said at the meeting, "There must be a way to compromise — that is the essence of contract negotiations."

public life. Penelope Pencilpusher is dedicated. She has clients and families to satisfy, mortgages to pay and volunteer egos to massage.

So there's going to be a lot of politicking as communities face abrupt changes in what county employees have taken to calling the "service delivery system."

Intense public debate can prevent any service from being delivered. In 1974, for instance, the city of Omaha turned over administration of several human services to Douglas County, whose commissioners agreed to form an area agency on aging in order to qualify for federal funds. The commissioners were immediately beset with ten community organizations who disagreed over the best use of the money. It took a full year before a coalition was formed.

There is yet another alternative to local cooperation. Elected officials could be forced to preside over infighting between groups — all heretofore proud to have been identified as charitable — arguing over the same tax dollars.

As federal dollars dry up, these squabbles will reach heated pitch. They may in fact lead to the demise of many a promising local government career. Such politicians will be downed by no one else, but Penelope Pencilpusher.

Recall could split Van Buren

Editor — We have checked and found that the Van Buren Township Board has a total of thirty eight (38) years experience as elected Township officials.

We would prefer experienced officials running our Township than ON-THE-JOB political trainees.

We feel that a Recall Election will not only split the community but could hurt the fine rating of Van Buren Township with people in nearby communities and County.

It has been demonstrated over the years that smart citizenry can accomplish their goals by attending Van Buren Township meetings (Second and fourth Tuesday of each month, 7:30 P.M., Town Hall, Tyler Road). At the audience participation portion of the meeting stand up, identify yourself, ask questions and listen to all debates.

The aforesaid is the American Democratic process of participating in governmental procedures. Not by brain-washing citizenry into a state of unrest whereby the citizenry signs unread petitions which could lead to possibly placing irresponsible, inexperienced, incompetent, selfopinionated, self-gratifying officials in charge of a governmental body.

We have been in attendance at board meetings where not one individual questioned the Board. Other times, attendees tried to embarrass the Board by innuendos, sarcasm, possible libeling statements and intimidation of elected officials.

Elected officials are only human and may make errors in judgement but these errors are not enough for a "recall" by a politically motivated opposition.

We have yet to receive a public answer to our questions to the recall petition circulators (Belleville Enterprise January 6, 1982). Who have they in mind to run Van Buren Township IF, and again we reiterate, this is a BIG IF, the sitting officials are recalled?

We request the chairman of the Recall committee to list the names of all 75 persons (Belleville Enterprise, Jan. 6, 1982, para 12) who were at that time circulating recall petitions. If they have the tenacity to circulate petitions they should have the courage of their convictions to stand up and be counted.

The voters of Van Buren Township elected the members of the Van Buren Township Board on November 3, 1980, for a four year term.

We ask another question: Were any of the petition circulators or their nominees defeated at the polls on Nov. 3, 1980, or at any other primary or general election? If so, are they considering running for elected office in a recall election?

Thank you for 'King editorial'

Editor — I want to express my appreciation for the editorial in the Wayne Eagle of January 14.

It shows a sensitive insight into the contribution of Martin Luther King II. He not only helped persons of his own race but added a moral dimension to the rest of us who need such a way of life.

On Westland's Dept. of Aging

Editor — While it is generally conceded that one should not get into a debate through the local news media, Mrs. Grace LaVan's letter which appeared in your paper on December 22, 1981 was so full of inaccuracies that the Westland Commission on Aging felt that a point-by-point reply was not only justified but absolutely necessary.

1. We find it quite a coincidence that the first 5 paragraphs of Mrs. LaVan's letter is identical to an unsigned article published in the December, 1981 edition of the SS. Simon and Jude Bulletin. (See enclosed copy of bulletin).

2. Many citizens who worked long, hard hours to pass the Charter Amendment were disappointed with the results. They had every right to be as they conducted a clear, honest, non-political campaign in an effort to secure funding for essential programs for the elderly.

3. Mrs. LaVan is incorrect in blaming the administration for placing the millage issue on the ballot. The Charter Amendment was placed on the November ballot at the request of a citizen who recognized the city's financial plight and understood State Act 39, which allows the City Council to place the question on the ballot. Only after considerable deliberation did the council vote, 7 to 0, to place the Amendment on the ballot. In no way, shape or form was the administration or any of the administrators responsible for the proposal appearing on the ballot. Therefore, Mrs. LaVan's contention that self serving administrators were responsible for the millage is inaccurate.

4. Mrs. LaVan also incorrectly states that this millage has been beaten twice. This was the first and only time that a millage to provide funding for programs for the elderly has appeared on a city wide election ballot.

5. The salary figures quoted by Mrs. LaVan were totally erroneous. The salary for the Director's position is budgeted at $25,889 (figures taken from 1982 budget book), which places that person next-to-last in terms of salaries for all Department heads. The Deputy Director's salary for fiscal 1982 is set at $23,718 (figure taken from 1981-82 Supervisory Union Contract). It is important to point out that the salary levels for the Director and other Department Heads are set by the Mayor and Council during budget deliberations and that the salary for the Deputy Director and other Supervisory employees are negotiated by a union negotiating team. The individuals involved are in no way involved in establishing their salaries. Mrs. LaVan also incorrectly points out that salary figures for these employees are available at the City Clerk's Office. Upon inquiring, the City Clerk notified us that salary information must be gotten from the Finance Department Budget Controller.

6. Anyone who participates in programs sponsored by the city's Department on Aging recognizes the need for such services and the efficient and competent manner in which these services are carried out. You cannot convince the 31 persons currently receiving nourishment through Homebound Meal Deliveries that the program is inefficient and incompetent. Also, try to convince the 200 persons who have received In-Home Chore Services, or the 150 persons who receive a daily phone call through the Tele-Care program; or the over 100 persons who had Homestead Tax Forms filled out in one week (January 4 through 8); or the over 200 persons who attend educational classes provided in cooperation with the local school districts; or the over 500 who participate in club activities at city sponsored sites; that these programs are run inefficiently. Such statistics and services are a product of qualified, dedicated individuals not the product of shouting, selfish, flag raising individuals.

In our opinion, the thing that prompts criticism similar to Mrs. LaVan's is that people have misconceptions of the role the Department on Aging plays within the Aging network and the city government. It is important to point out that the Department is to provide programs which enrich the quality of life for Westland's elderly residents. However, it is not a "cure-all" agency. Some situations, such as the lack of subsidized housing is something even the most qualified person can not change. We must also remember that the Department is not a welfare agency — its purpose is not to "hand out" money, food, or appliances, such as dehumidifiers, the Department can, however, provide information to qualified individuals on where they can receive such assistance.

7. It is true that many local church officials assisted in supporting the millage issue. However, the two mentioned in Mrs. LaVan's letter merely affixed their signatures to a piece of literature paid for by the organized Committee supporting the millage. They did so recognizing that additional funding was needed if the elderly were to be properly taken care of. They looked upon the Charter Amendment as a "non-political" issue.

However, the pastor named in Mrs. LaVan's letter as taking unjust criticism from proposal supporters, attempted to disguise his opposition to the millage and the personnel operating the Department on Aging, in meeting notices sent to many persons in his parish. He used these notices to personally attack the staff of the Department and to condemn the millage. (See attached letters distributed to parishioners).

8. The new Mayor and the top council vote getter both stated prior to the election that they were opposed to the millage because enough monies were available for senior services without the additional millage. In fact, the Mayor distributed campaign literature stating one of his goals is the reinstatement of essential senior services. Therefore, the minutes Mrs. LaVan refers to are not asking the Mayor and top vote-getter to come up with additional funds, but are just reminding them of their commitment to the elderly of the community.

9. Mrs. LaVan states that the Directors were personally responsible for driving seniors, to the poll. This is untrue. We can verify that they worked at the polls, without breaks, on election day, distributing literature for the candidates of their choice (Election Day is a holiday for all city workers). If Mrs. LaVan cares to challenge this she can do so by providing the names of those people who received rides.

10. As for the lack of support of the programs among the elderly and the community, we can provide further statistics in addition to those previously mentioned, the millage question received 6,400 and some odd votes, certainly far more than many people expected and a strong show of support. You can argue that 7,000 "persons voted against it. We feel that the "no" votes were cast against a tax increase not against the Department or its programs. Also, absentee votes run almost 3 to 1 in favor of the proposal. It is generally thought that most of the absentee voters are seniors. Therefore, we feel that the program was supported by the elderly residents. In addition, 126 persons were willing to spend Election Day distributing literature for the Charter Amendment. Such statistics certainly show that the elderly and the community recognize the importance of city sponsored senior services. One last statistic — when called upon to contribute to the campaign and to the Department's budget, the seniors, their clubs, and community groups came through with flying colors. Close to $5,000 in donations has been raised to keep the Department operating and functional.

11. We have provided information to substantiate our claims. We would hope that in the future those persons criticizing the Department do likewise instead of depending on idle rumors and gossip. Also, we feel that such criticism, through the local news media, has a negative effect on the community. There are proper channels, the Advisory Council, the Commission, and the City Council, which Mrs. LaVan and others can use to discuss problems and look for positive solutions. Therefore, we, the Commission, are inviting Mrs. LaVan to attend our next meeting, January 26, 1982, to air her grievances.

Finally, we are appalled that someone like Mrs. LaVan, with her background in church and community groups, can find joy in other people's misery.

W-W school board sparks controversy

Editor — This is an open letter to the citizens of Wayne and Westland School system.

We all know about Public Act 114 and how it affected our taxes in Wayne and Westland. Some people's taxes went up from three to $700, this year, and yet the five board members of the Wayne-Westland Schools reopened the teachers and administrators contract some nine months in advance.

The administrators got a nine percent pay raise, which the average administrator will get from four to five thousand raise this year.

The teachers also got a nine percent raise.

The only two board members voted against such an increase was Dave Moranty and Fred Warmbler.

With 700,000 people in this state out of work and the automobile employees taking wage cuts to survive is it fair to them and the taxpayers of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools?

The board doesn't really care about this community neither does the administration. All they want to do is pad the pockets of the administrators. Another political move by the board president.

The Superintendent of the School wants to start a Wayne-Westland Community College. I ask this question: Can the area support two community colleges? We are already paying for the Wayne County Community College. I find it hard to believe this is not going to cost more money. And if so, where is the money coming from?

Do you want this school system to become like Taylor and Pontiac?

In my opinion if the five board members really knew what they were doing they would not vote the way they voted.

It's all for political gain. One board member is up for reelection this year. He apparently wants the teachers and administrators support. Are the kids and taxpayers to suffer?

I say this kind of action must stop before this school system is broke. And I believe that the five board members that voted for all these raises should be recalled. They don't belong on the school board, we need a change.

Citizens of Wayne-Westland, I beg you to get involved this year and help yourself and your kids. Don't let this present board destroy the school system.

CLIFFORD JOHNSON

Reflections

I know there's life after death

Could a proof of survival after death be obtained it would carry us deeper into the true nature of the universe than we can ever obtain by achieving absolute knowledge of the material scheme of things.

The discovery that there is a life in man totally independent of his material body would become a dominating fact in science and in philosophy.

Even though work begun by F.W.H. Myers, William James, Sir Oliver Lodge and other eminent scientists of yesterday and continued today by Dr. John B. Rhine, Dr. L. LeShans, Dr. Ian Stevens and other notable physicists and psychologists, is continuing to give evidence that immortality is a fact, and that the epoch-making discovery has already been made, still men's minds must move in their regular manner. Great convictions are sounder and firmer when they are of gradual growth.

And that gradual growth is becoming more evident in the layman, as more and more men and women are accepting the things that happen to them, knowing that they are not the recipients of illusory imaginings, but rather, that they have been contacted by their loved ones who have gone on.

The woman who was sitting beside me was a woman who had long been proud of her skepticism.

"It has to be proved before I believe anything," she told me, "and last week immortality was proven to me."

Two years before, her husband of fifteen years had suddenly died. The unexpectedness of his death overwhelmed her and her grief was shattering.

"I didn't even want to live," she said. "With him everything had gone, and I found that I walked around like a zombie, just wishing I could die. After awhile I took hold of myself and made myself start living again. I went back to work, sold my house and moved into an apartment, and life went on; not too interesting, but at least I wasn't submerged in my grief."

"Last week was our 17th wedding anniversary, and I kept thinking of Lee all day, and longing for him. That night I went to bed and I lay there thinking of that day seventeen years ago, and how wonderful Lee had always been and how dearly I had loved him. I turned off the light and buried my head in my pillow and cried a little. It was then that I felt the covers lift and someone lay down beside me. I felt his arms around me and I felt his head against mine. I wasn't frightened and for some reason I knew that it was my Lee. I cuddled down against him and a great peace stole over me... and I fell asleep.

"When I awakened I thought what a vivid dream it had been, and then I turned and looked at the pillow... and there was the indentation of his head... just like it used to be."

"Now I know that life continues, and that my Lee had come back that one night... for our seventeenth wedding anniversary."

see them coming down the steps of the Algerian airliner, passing through a gantry of people... only this time the people are friendly. The are smiling and patting them on the back. Former hostage Richard Queens is doing the roll call for us as each hostage comes past the cameras. Barbara Rosen is in the studio, too. She tells us which one is her husband, Barry. "There he is... There's Barry," she says. She barely smiles. It is almost an apology...

But there! We can breathe easy. We can believe it now. We see them and they're smiling. They're free.

This is the day we've all been waiting for. Now the emotions, checked for so long, can flow... soon the tears will come. Incredibly, they do not. It's not the way we wanted it to be. We didn't want to share the day with even a new president. We wanted Jimmy to leave happy. We wanted Walter to leave happy. We wanted it to be like the year the Tigers won the World Series. We wanted to open doors and hear the shouting and the cheers. We wanted to decorate our cars, our trees, our houses with symbolic yellow ribbons.

It happened too fast. We didn't have time. The thugs — with their on-again-off-again promises — their malicious timing — robbed us of even that...

A psychiatrist is telling us that it is absolutely essential that we allow the 52 a speedy return to normal life — else we will have 52 basket cases on our hands...

An entrepreneur is showing the camera several styles of hostage tee shirts, hostage buttons, hostage bumper stickers... "It is just our way," the entrepreneur is saying, "of showing how much we care..."

It is enough... too much. The images begin to flash before my eyes. It has been a strange, almost surrealistic kind of day.

Maybe tomorrow...

Images-January 20, 1981

Wednesday, January 20 — The first anniversary of the return of the hostages from Iran. Also the first anniversary of the inauguration of President Reagan.

Incredibly, until I read last year's notes, I had forgotten that those two events took place on the same day. I wrote those notes, not because it was such a historic day — it was, to be sure, but it was more than that — it was a strange, funny, sad, triumphant day — and everyone felt the effects in different ways.

What follows is what I saw that day and how it affected me. If you saw and felt something entirely different, it is about par for that kind of day.

JANUARY 20, 1981 — It is mid-morning and Walter Cronkite is announcing that the hostages are about to be released. "There is no truth to the rumor, however, that they are in the air."

Walter doesn't sound very excited. Why isn't Walter excited? "They are reported to be in two buses, waiting to board the two Algerian airliners a few feet away on the tarmac..."

Walter is talking through his teeth, terse, almost angry. This — Inauguration Day, Liberation Day — was to have been Walter's finest, final hour. On a par with lift-off on the lunching pads in the old days — Walter's favorite reporting assignments. All is finally right with the world...and yet — yes, Walter is mad.

Why? Walter, ever the professional newsmen, isn't saying. Partly, though, it is because this was to have been Jimmy Carter's finest and final hour, too, and the "barbarians" cheated him out of even that. Walter tells us that much in so many words.

We want with Walter all morning, hoping they will be released before Noon — swearing-in time. Please, let Jimmy Carter have this one last moment of glory. Let him be the one to announce it. Let it happen during his presidency.

We watch the platforms being built, the parade preparations, the sleek, black limousines coming and going through the gates at the White House. We switch back and forth to reporters at separate vantage points to make sure they are ready. We talk about what a beautiful spot this is, on the south lawn, looking down at the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. We wonder why no other president had ever chosen it as his swearing-in place.

Every now and then, we quite the small talk to question the motives of the kidnappers in Tehran who chose this very moment in American history to cause another historical event to happen. Who was it to bother? Jimmy Carter? Ronald Reagan? Who?

Just before noon, we switch to Tom Brokaw. He is announcing that momentarily Ronald Wilson Reagan will be sworn in as the 39th or 40th president of the United States, depending on how you look at it — but first this from Kimberly-Clark...

NOON. The swearing-in. Nancy is wearing a bright red dress, clearly visible even from the helicopter views. Rosslyn is in beige and has not smiled once. The camera swings by her, never to return. Ronald Reagan introduces, for the last time, President Carter and Vice-president Mondale. He is raising his right hand...

The weather in Washington is an enchanting 50 degrees and sunny, as every commentator on every channel relentlessly reminds us. Many minutes of reportage time are spent watching for an impending cloud cover...

At lunch, President Reagan makes the announcement that the hostages are over free air space. He does it in fine actor-politician style. Everybody cheers. No one asks where Carter is. No one thinks to stand him in front of a camera to get his first reaction...

Someone asks Barbara Walters how she feels about the hostages being released. Strangely, she says, "I feel guilt". Nothing more. Just, "I feel guilt". The interviewer doesn't ask why. Now we will never know. Was it because the media played the incident up too much? Not enough? Does she feel guilt because all her usually effective powers of persuasion might as well have been so much marshmallow for all the help she was to the hostages?

Or is it because one newscaster is asking another newscaster how she feels, instead of asking someone whose opinion might have mattered?

Never mind, Barbara — Jane Pauley is doing that. Jane is asking family members of the former hostages, "How do you feel, now that the hostages have been released?" The family members each smile and say, "Wonderful, just wonderful", or words to that effect. Jane's next question is, "What will you do when — comes home?" The family member has to think about that. Finally he or she grins and says, "I really don't know — just go back to a normal life, I guess." Jane grins, too. There isn't much more to say. Back to you, Tom.

Then someone says, "We mustn't forget the seven Americans who died trying to rescue the hostages. They mustn't have died in vain." The mood is spoiled...back to earth...

Now someone thinks to ask why didn't we do the yellow ribbon bit for the POW's? Well, we did — sort of, we say. We had I.D. bracelets, remember? But, look — you can't compare the two. The POW's were soldiers. They were subject to that kind of stuff — even trained for it. These (the 52) were trained for diplomacy. Makes a difference.

Someone else asks, "Why are we calling them 'heroes'?" Just then the trailer carrying the Mormon Tabernacle Choir rolls to a lurching stop in front of the reviewing stand. They are singing, "Mine eyes have seen the Glory of the coming of the Lord..." Tears glisten in the new president's eyes. An American smile crinkles his face. The camera never wavers.

Moments later, the local cameras take over and we see the front door of the Subic home. The Subics, however, choose to remain indoors, away from the reporters and the cameras. We become quickly bored with watching a front door and move on to other things.

Robert Ode's people are "just folks". Michigan gothic. We love them.

Earth mother Mattie Jones is holding the phone and crying. We love her. (Please, Mattie — don't let us in again...)

The scene shifts once more and... Is it...? Yes! There they are! We can

Want to buy Huron Valley Scout cookies?

It's that time of year again—Girl Scout Cookie time. From January 22 through February 12 the Girl Scouts in your neighborhood will be taking orders for Girl Scout Cookies.

Remember these delicious cookies come in seven varieties. Shortbreads, the first cookies offered in 1933, is still a favorite. But, over the years the Girl Scouts have added a variety of cookies to the selection. There are Thin Mints, Peanut Butter Patties, Chocolate and Vanilla Sandwich Cremes, Peanut Butter Sandwiches, Old Fashioned Oatmeal and Caramel deLites (alias Sumores).

Last year Sumores, now renamed Caramel deLites, were so popular the bakery, FFV-Interbake could not meet the consumer demand for this new cookie. This year FFV is ready for every sweet tooth in Huron Valley Girl Scout Council and across the nation. FFV is predicting that Caramel deLites will become the number one selling Girl Scout cookie this year.

Girl Scout Cookies have become a great American tradition. This tradition is the financial backbone for providing the Girl Scout program to the over 10,000 girl membership in Washtenaw, Livingston, Monroe and western Wayne Counties.

Troops are asked to participate in the sale for several reasons. First, it gives the community an opportunity to meet, learn more about and give Girl Scouts their financial support. Second, it offers the girls a very meaningful form of service for the Council and for her own troop. The troop bonus on each box sold enables the girls to have enough money to cover the costs of troop program. Third, the sale itself can provide program activities for the troops, as they determine for themselves how they should sell, what techniques to use, what safety factors they should consider and how to spend the income they will earn.

The purchase of Girl Scout Cookies is more than buying groceries. It is an investment in the future of girls 6 through 17. As Girl Scouting moves into its 70th year won't you help Girl Scouting going and growing?

Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is a United Way Agency.

Senior nutrition program

The Out-Wayne County Human Services Inc. is sponsoring a contest to find a logo which best depicts its nutrition program for senior citizens.

All seniors, 60 years and older, are eligible to participate. The entries must be submitted on 8½" by 11" paper by no later than Friday, Jan. 22. Entries can be turned in at nutrition sites in Western Wayne County or mailed to OWCHS, 13325 Farmington Road, Livonia 48150.

Judging will take place at 1 p.m. March 5 at the Southland Center, 23000 Erueka Road, Taylor. A prize will be given for the first-place entry.

For further information contact Shirley Selak at 422-2602.

The menu for the first 2 weeks of February at the out-county nutrition sites will include:

MONDAY, FEB. 1—veal steak, mashed potatoes, lima beans, white bread, ambrosia and milk.

TUESDAY, FEB. 2—meat loaf, oven-browned potatoes, peas, dinner roll, applesauce and milk.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 3—macaroni and cheese, brussel sprouts, stewed tomatoes, muffin, fresh fruit and milk.

Can icefishing be enjoyable?

If you walk through the sporting goods section of any department store, you'll find the shelves piled high with icefishing tackle.

A casual observer would have a difficult time understanding why anyone in his right mind would subject his body to such an insane pastime as fishing on a body of water that has frozen solid.

Not only does an icefisherman have to contend with the elements, but his mobility is severely impaired both by heavy clothing and by the fact that every time he wants to move to a different spot, he has to cut, chop, drill or spud another hole through ice that sometimes can be four or five feet thick.

He sits on a stool or an overturned bucket for hours on end in sleet, blustery winds and snowstorms, falls on his can every third or fourth step—and if he's really lucky—he'll have a few dinky perch to show for his efforts.

An icefisherman would be hard pressed to come up with an explanation on why he finds it so enjoyable.

Perhaps these tips, prepared by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, will help make your icefishing trips even more enjoyable:

TECHNIQUES—There are three basic ways to go about icefishing: with handlines, tip-ups, or spears. The first two are the most popular, probably because they are the simplest and can be used for taking just about every kind of legal fish that swims in Michigan waters.

Spear fishing is a more specialized sport which puts a premium on patience and accuracy.

Generally, all three methods are best from around dawn until mid-morning and again from late afternoon to sundown. However, spearing action usually holds up throughout the day.

Keep in mind that fish become rather sluggish during the winter and move around less than during summer. So it stands to reason that the more holes you cut and try the better your chances are for locating fish.

HOOK AND LINE—In getting geared up, you'll want a short fishing rod two to three feet in length. A limber rod is usually preferred for catching panfish and trout, and a stiff rod, which aids in setting the hook, for pike, walleyes and muskies.

If you're after big fish, a free-running reel, instead of the usual line-winding cleat, is a must. It will allow you to "play" your fish. And when used without a bobber, this reel will let you change your fishing depth easily.

Fishing line should be transparent monofilament. Not over four-pound test is recommended for panfish and brown and rainbow trout. Anglers who fish for pike and muskies use line as heavy as eight- to 12-pound test.

Neglecting to use light line is probably the most frequent mistake of unsuccessful fishermen. Occasionally, fish will break light line, but with some finesse, you can land most fish and are certain to have more bites.

When it comes to the bobber, the smaller the better, as long as it's big enough to stay afloat. The boat buoyancy and lure weight should be balanced so the slightest nibble will sink the bobber and offer minimum resistance to the fish. If the float is too big, fish often spit out the bait.

TIP-UPS—Tip-ups equipped with reels and flags are used mostly for larger fish. They are cheap to buy and easy to make.

There is no big trick to operating tip-ups; they are merely baited and set out. When a fish bites, the flag flies up and the fun begins. The rest is up to the fisherman and he goes to it by giving his line a solid jerk, setting the hook. Next, he pulls the line in rapidly, hand over hand. When the fish is near the hole, it's time to play it careful.

In their haste, anglers more frequently lose their catches at this point by trying to get the fish on the ice before it is ready. Be prepared to let the line slip through your fingers—but always with some tension.

Tip-ups are especially nice to have in colder weather when it's hard to stand guard over fishing holes for a long period of time. Once the tip-ups are set out, the fisherman can retire to a warm shanty and wait for the action to pop.

Or, tip-ups give an angler a chance to try their luck at handline fishing at the same time. But remember—Michigan fishing laws permit an angler to use only two poles at the same time. This means you can operate two handlines, a handline and a tip-up, or two tip-ups.

SPEARING—An absolute "must" is to have a dark shanty which eliminates the chance of fish seeing you and being spooked. If you have a stove in your shanty, make sure the flow from it is blocked. The shanty itself should be sturdily built so the sound from your movements inside will not travel through the ice. The fisherman should wear dark clothing and gloves.

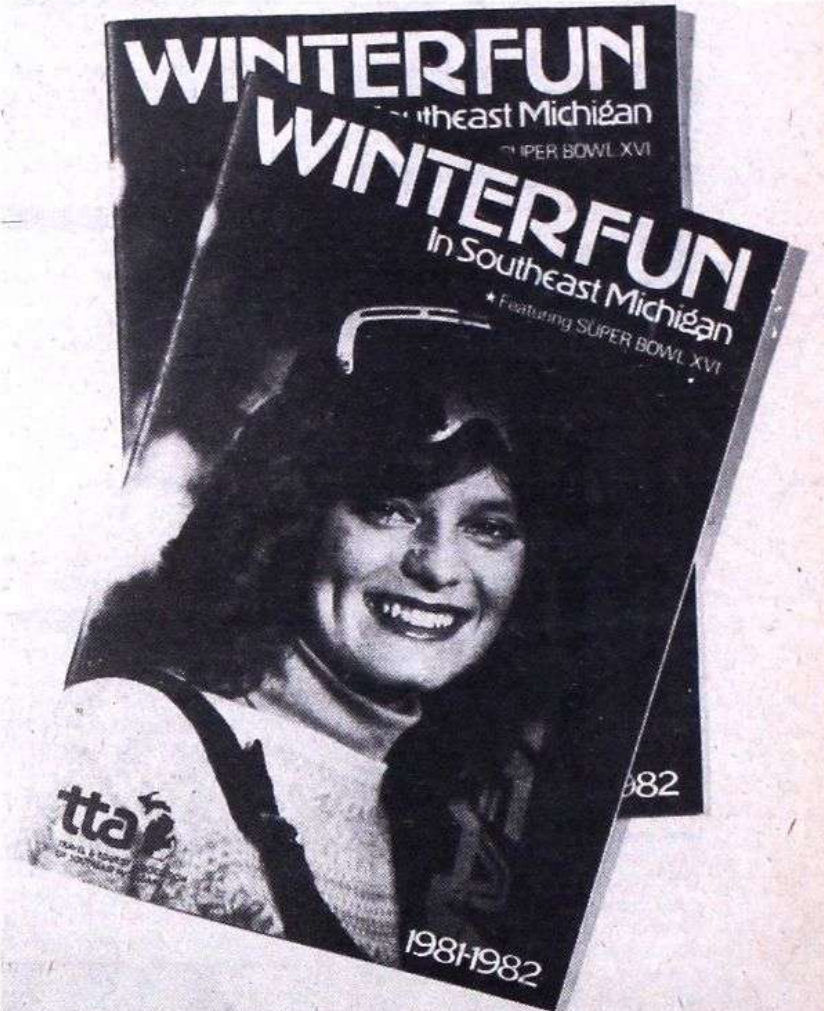

For the sake of accuracy, use a spear that is weighted. Those that aren't have to be thrown too hard and this tends to make them angle off course.

Overall weight of the spear depends upon the fisherman's tastes and the kind of fish he's going after.

The spear used on sturgeon may weigh as much as 18 pounds. Your spear should have seven to nine strong tines and about a seven-foot handle with a rope attached so you won't lose it.

In attaching the rope, run it through a cotterpin on the spear's handle down the tines where it is tied fast or secured with a metal ring. When you hit the mark and start to haul the fish up, a slight jerk pulls the cotterpin out and lets you lift the spear with the tines up. If the fish isn't speared very well, this helps to keep it on the tines instead of giving it a chance to work free.

The element of surprise can't be overstressed as a key to successful spear fishing. In getting poised for action, lower your spear into the water before you release it. Otherwise, it will make a loud splash when it hits the water and alert the fish in time to let it dart away to safety.

Are you looking forward to skiing, snowmobiling or skating in the next few weeks? Or do you prefer a relaxing time dining by the fireside? Whatever your interest, the new "Winterfun" booklet published by the Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan is a guide to enjoyable activities throughout Southeast Michigan. Museum-Village prices set

Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village will not raise admission prices during 1982, continuing rates established in the summer of 1981.

Admissions are $7 for adults, $3.50 for children 6 through 12, $5.50 for senior citizens 62 and older and free for children under six. During the summer, from June 12 through Sept. 6, admission to the village is $8 for adults, $4 for children 6 through 12, $6.50 for senior citizens 62 and older and free for children under six. Admissions to the museum and village are separate.

A special pass allowing unlimited admission to both museum and village over two consecutive days will cost $14 for adults, $7 for children 6 through 12 and $11 for senior citizens 62 and older. During the summer months, the price is $15 for adults, $7.50 for children 6 through 12 and $12 for senior citizens 62 and older.

The museum and village also will have new operating hours—seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. They will be closed on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day.

'Ragtime' is best film of 1981

By STEVE WALZ
Special to Playtime

Everybody in the industry has been making noises about the Oscar performances rendered by Henry Fonda and Kate Hepburn in the much anticipated "On Golden Pond" film.

Not to take anything away from the ailing actor, who is worthy of all of the accolades after years of Academy Award frustration, but scene for scene, "Ragtime," in my opinion, is 1981's best picture.

It is a mammoth production (2 hours, 36 minutes) which reportedly had at least a half-hour trimmed from its original version.

The lavish spectacle was adapted for the big screen from E.L. Doctor-ow's best-selling turn-of-the-century novel. Essentially, "Ragtime" is a scintillating slice of Americana, using bustling New York City and its environs as a backdrop for the story.

Milos Forman then took a phalanx of unknown talent and cast them in pseudo-historical roles, bringing them together in a riveting climax highlighted by the appearance of James Cagney as Police Commissioner Rheinlander Waldo.

Here's how "Ragtime" develops—High-class Westchester parents (played by Mary Steenburgen and James Olson) take in a black female border (Debbie Allen) and her newborn child after the father disappears.

Meanwhile back in New York, Evelyn Nesbit (Elizabeth McGovern), a controversial model/actress, is implicated in the death of her one-time lover, architect Stanford White (Norman Mailer), but doesn't care about the fate of the accused—her husband (Robert Joy) one way or the other. She'd rather spend her time shopping on the lower East Side of Manhattan where she meets two very important people—Tateh (Mandy Patinkin), a Jewish silhouette artist who will later become a famous silent movie director, and the "younger brother" (Brad Dourif) of Mary Steenburgen.

Back in Westchester, the father of the baby, a ragtime piano player named Coalhouse Walker (Howard E. Rollins) claims the child, after explaining to the family that he couldn't support the child and its mother until now. Coalhouse, who is employed by a ritzy Harlem nightclub, is now able to afford a first-class automobile as well.

As he returns to New York to make plans for his family, he is confronted by a racist fire brigade which takes hideous liberties with the vehicle. Walker wants justice, but the legal system favors the white men.

Incensed, Walker is forced to plot a bloody revenge which involves the "younger brother" who has since given up on Nesbit and his sister (Steenburgen).

"Ragtime" is so compelling a tale that it leaves you begging for more. All of the aforementioned actors and actresses are worthy of Oscar consideration, especially Miss McGovern who is positively zany.

Milos Forman and Dino De Laurentiis have given us a masterpiece which will also force us to re-examine our treatment of the black man.

PROGRAMS SUBJECT TO CHANGE

movies

SUN., JAN. 24

Sound of Music

7-10PM NBC (6 Central/Mountain)
THE SOUND OF MUSIC. One of the most popular motion pictures that ever came down the pike, returns to the television screen with Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer, as if you already didn't know. Based on the hit Rodgers and Hammerstein Broadway production, it tells the sentimental story of the musical von Trapp family of Austria in the years prior to World War II. A treat for the entire family.

9-11:15PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)

METEOR

Sean Connery
Natalie Wood
Karl Malden
Henry Fonda

MON., JAN. 25

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)
WHEN A STRANGER CALLS. A retired but determined L.A. cop (Charles Durning) follows the twisted trail of a homicidal escaped mental patient (Tony Beckley), whose wanton assaults upon children and adults make it more difficult to figure out where he will next kill. With Carol Kane, Colleen Dewhurst and Rachel Roberts. Well done and not too grisly... given the genre. The opening third of the film is based on a well-known American folktale.

WED., JAN. 27

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
TOM HORN. A beautifully photographed and sensitive portrait of the vanishing Old West with Steve McQueen portraying the legendary scout and former Indian fighter, rassing with rustlers and Linda Evans. With the great Richard Farnsworth and an interesting cameo by Stephen Oliver as a not-so-gentlemanly Jim Corbett. This is the film McQueen probably would have liked to have us remember as his last rather than the infinitely poorer and subsequent The Hunter.

SUN., JAN. 31

7-8PM NBC (6 Central/Mountain)
PEACOCK SHOWCASE: Earthbound (Part 1). A family from another planet crash lands on Earth, and their fabulous super-powers create havoc for the people of Gold Rush, California.

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)
WORLD WAR III (Part 1). A shocking drama detailing a scenario of events that could conceivably lead world powers to the brink of global conflict. David Soul headlines and all-star cast. Concluded in Part 2, same time tomorrow night).

TUES., FEB. 2

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

MILLION DOLLAR INFILDE. A bittersweet comedy about the members of a Long Island softball team, the third baseman of which is played by Rob ("Meathead") Reiner. Who's on first and who stays home.

WED., FEB. 3

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)
A PIANO FOR MRS. CIMINO. The stigmas placed upon the elderly, as reflected by a 73-year-old widow.

Bette Davis stars in this sensitive and inspirational drama of family conflict and love.

specials

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain)
KRAFT SALUTES WALT DISNEY WORLD'S 10TH ANNIVERSARY. A warm appreciation of the magical entertainment kingdom established in Florida by the legendary giant of American creativity, Walt Disney! Along on this special whirlwind visit are Eileen Brennan, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band, Michael Keaton, Dean Jones, Michele Lee, John Schneider and Ricky Schroder. Very good fun!

FRI., JAN. 22

10-11PM NBC (9 Central/Mountain)
AN AMERICAN PROFILE: THE NARCS. With Tom Brokaw.

10-11PM ABC (9 Central/Mountain)
STRIKE FORCE. Internal Affair with guests Don Gordon, Adam Roarke and Dick Anthony Williams. Robert Stack's supercops are called when the perpetrators of a series of daring armed robberies appear to be police officers.

SAT., JAN. 23

8-8:30PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain)
ONE OF THE BOYS. Premiere. Mickey Rooney stars as a live-wire retired agent who shares an apartment and a generation gap with his grandson and the grandson's roommate, both college students.

8-9PM ABC (7 Central/Mountain)
KING'S CROSSING. Premiere of a drama series about an American family in transition. Each week the (hopefully) powerful saga will offer a complete story while adding a new chapter to the family chronicle.

9-10PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

BARBARA MANDRELL AND THE MANDRELL SISTERS. Ray Charles and country singer Sylvia join Barbara, Louise and Irlene in comedy and song as the gals move to this new time period.

10-11PM NBC (9 Central/Mountain)

Steve Martin: Comedy Is Not Pretty

SUN., JAN. 24

LEGACY OF FDR

10-11PM NBC (9 Central/Mountain)
NOTHING TO FEAR-THE LEGACY OF FDR. A look at 32nd President of the United States, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, his four administrations and how the New Deal grappled with the problems of the '30's Great Depression. With John Hart.

MON., JAN. 25

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)
THE AMERICAN MUSIC AWARDS.

MR. AND MRS. CLAUDE WILSON

Claude Wilsons feted on 60th anniversary

Sixty years of togetherness were observed Dec. 28 by Claude and Kenois Wilson of 38339 Castle Dr., Romulus, who were honored two days later at a dinner-dance reception given by their children.

Former Belleville residents who've lived in this community for 40 years, the Wilsons were married in Paris, Tenn. in 1921. The former Kenois Douglas of Murray, Ky., Mrs. Wilson later gave birth to five children: Hoyt of Toledo, O.; Claudelle (Mrs. Earl) Keene of Crystal Lake, Ill.; Don of Ypsilanti and Bonnie (Mrs. Mort) Stoelton and John of Belleville. They, with their husbands and wives, planned the Dec. 30 reception which was held at the Van Buren Township Hall.

Besides their five children the Wilsons have 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren on their family tree.

Red and white floral arrangements with Christmas greenery were used as decorations for the couple's first "official" wedding reception since there was no party 60 years ago. Some 130 relatives and guests came from Seattle, Wash.; Norfolk, Va.; Murray, Ky.; Crystal Lake, Ill.; Grand Rapids, Pontiac and neighboring cities to congratulate the honored couple.

For the occasion, Mrs. Wilson was presented with a corsage of white carnations, pink rosebuds and baby's breath and her husband received a white carnation boutonniere.

A Ford Motor Company retiree in 1969, Mr. Wilson spends his spare time doing macrame and woodworking and, with his wife, is also involved in ceramics. Still in good health, the Wilsons enjoy traveling and visiting friends and relatives in other states.

went on a shopping trip to San Francisco on the Bart System.

After having been a medical patient at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for the past three weeks, Clinton Baehr was able to return home Jan. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson of Fremont spent the past week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wilson.

Sam Schultz, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Schultz of Hoeft Road, has been a patient at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for five days recently due to a severe cut on his knee sustained while sledding. He was able to return home on Thursday of last week.

In celebration of her birthday Mrs. Ted (Eva) Lupher was guest of honor at a dinner held at her home on Karr Road Jan. 9. A nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Don Huntsinger of Taylor, surprised her by bringing in a complete dinner along with birthday cake the day before her real day. Others present were Donna Haskins and daughter, Stacey and Keith Huntsinger and friend, also from Taylor.

George Maki of Quirk Road was able to return home Jan. 14 after having undergone surgery at Beyer Memorial Hospital the first of the week.

In celebration of the January birthdays of Mrs. Frances Korgal on the 8th and Frank Korgal on the 7th, a family dinner was held at the former's home on Sumpter Road Jan. 10. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Korgal and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Schultz and family and the Frank Korgals.

News on our grads

Four qualify for DCB Dean's list

Four Romulus residents were among those qualifying for the Dean's List for the fall term at Detroit College of Business in Dearborn. They are Kathy Boatright, Donna M. Crowe, Janet L. Renke and Carol A. Schneider.

To make the list a student must achieve a 3.50 or better grade point average at the end of the quarter.

Glen Summers among HTU honor students

A total of 801 students achieved placement on the Dean's List at Michigan Technological University at Houghton for the fall quarter.

Glen L. Summers, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Summers of 39101 Pennsylvania Rd., Romulus, was among those earning a grade point average of 3.5 or higher. A 1977 graduate of Huron High School, he is a senior in forestry and president of the Soils Club.

Dean of Students Harold Meese reported that 203 students earned straight A averages of 4.00.

They'll wed in March

The engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Melinda Jarvis, and Jeff Sayre is announced by George and Barbara Jarvis of 11153 Borgman, Belleville. A 1980 graduate of Belleville High School, the bride-elect is employed at the Ypsilanti Credit Bureau. Her fiancé, the son of James and Joan Sayre of 6585 Morton Taylor Rd., Belleville, graduated in 1974 from Belleville High School and in 1978 from Michigan State University where he studied crop and soil science. An affiliate of Alpha Gamma Rho, national agricultural fraternity, he is employed as a farmer. The young couple have reserved Willow Run Church of God for their March 6 altar date.

New on the scene

Lauren Ruth Bealafeld

A very special little "package," a baby girl, — weight 6 lbs., 5 oz.; length 20 inches — was delivered at 2:50 p.m. Christmas Day to Mark and Marilyn Bealafeld of 13702 Lenmore, Belleville.

The couple's first child, she was titled "Lauren Ruth" on her arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Her proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jacobi of St. Louis, Mo. and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bealafeld of Pelham, N.Y. Great-granddad honors go out to Ben Steinhoff in University City, Mo.

The new mother is the former Marilyn Jacobi.

Lee Michael Schmidt

"Lee Michael" is the label chosen for the new son born Jan. 10 to Dennis and Sandra Schmidt of 4 Locust, Belleville. The new heir, who has a 2½-year-old sister, Dena Lee, put in his appearance at Riverside Hospital in Trenton at 10:58 a.m., weighed 6 lbs., 3 ozs. and measured 19 inches.

His proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schmidt of Carleton and Mr. and Mrs. David Hoggarth of Belleville. He is also the new addition to the family trees of Thelma Hagan and Ethel Schmidt of Taylor; Erie Atwood of Dearborn and Myra Hoggarth of Lincoln Park.

potpourri

By Lee Smith Suburban Living Editor

Everywhere we look today we see boys and girls, guys and gals, men and women, even mere infants, clad in the uniform-of-the-day — jeans. The two-legged bit of apparel with its sprayed-on look constructed from very unglamorous bolts of cloth called denim, glare at us from magazines, billboards, television commercials, posters, newspaper ads until we've become a nation of rear-view spectators.

No longer considering them the exclusive emblem of the farmer, people the world over are turning to jeans for work and play the year 'round and with many turning up in the classiest of places with exorbitant price tags clipped from their seams but their designer's logos glaringly obvious.

Out West, especially among cattlemen, however, they are usually called Levis and in other places they're referred to as denims and dungarees. But, were a poll to be taken across the horizons, "jeans" would no doubt win the title hands down.

Where did this unlikely term originate? Although thousands of girls named Jean have worn them, there is no connection at all between the girl's name and that of the garment. The very simple explanation is that it's actually an altered form of "Genoa" where the cloth was once woven.

Similarly, Denim comes from the phrase "serge de Nimes" after the city of Nimes, France.

Levis derive their name from Levi Strauss, a San Francisco clothing merchant of Gold Rush days. His contribution was the addition of rivets to the corners of pockets so that they would not tear out when miners loaded them with samples of ore. As their fame spread throughout the West, Levis became the popular term for those durable work clothes — just as Stetson or John B. (both from the John B. Stetson hat manufacturing company) became the accepted terms for the cowpuncher's 10-gallon hat.

And what about dungarees, you're wondering? Again, the term is related to a city — this time in Southern Asia. More than 250 years ago, English traders began to bring back from India a coarsely woven cotton cloth which was known in Hindustani — the trade language of India — as "dungri."

At first it was used chiefly for sails and tents, but seamen, noting its long-wearing qualities, began fashioning it into work clothing. As time passed, "dungri" picked up another syllable, becoming "dungaree." What's more, dungarees became the standard work uniform of the navy and merchant marine and it's a fair guess that the present popularity of dungarees can be traced, at least in part, to the fact that millions of young Americans wore them for the first time during World War II. The textile industry, however, prefers to label the material "denim."

And while we're on the subject of good, wearable fabrics, let's check out still another very popular piece of cloth — corduroy, — also dubbed "cords" by its thousands of disciples.

At one time, of all materials used for clothing, none (save, perhaps denim) was so sturdy, so well able to withstand the abusive rough and tumble wear of young people as corduroy. It, too, is the plebeian workhorse of today's fabrics and yet its name means "cord fit for the king." Originally corduroy (from the French "corde du roi") was woven from silk and was used exclusively by the kings of France as part of their hunting costumes. All so simple, what?

And, since we're being so "materialistic," wanna know where the saying "cotton to" originated? When we say we "cotton to" a person or idea (meaning that we have taken a fancy to it) we are referring directly to the way cotton can cling to our clothing. If you have ever tried picking cotton lint from a wool suit, you'll understand the origin of the phrase.

Now — do you cotton to that explanation?

If, on picking up Colleen McCullough's "An Indecent Obsession" you're expecting another "Thornbirds" — forget it! This is a far cry from her in-depth story of an Australian sheep farmer's family which wove a tapestry of romance, religion and ranching.

As far removed from the ovine world as champagne from goat's milk, her latest tale is set in the mental ward of a military hospital on a tropical Indo-Pacific island at the end of World War II. Ward X and its five remaining patients and their nurse, Honour Langtry, fill the list of characters which, somehow, failed to gain this reader's sympathy or empathy.

Physically isolated and set apart from the rest of the hospital, Ward X is a harbor for "troppo" inmates — soldiers who've broken under stresses of jungle warfare.

Langtry cares deeply for the quintet in her charge, each very different from one another in background, temperament and the nature of his problem and each bound together by the routine of their days and, above all, a shared and possessive devotion to their nurse.

The last thing they anticipate or want at that late date, with the hospital soon to close, is a new admission.

Sgt. Michael Wilson is an instantly unsettling presence, not only does he upset the delicate balance of the ward but he is so visibly intact — a man composed and very much in charge of himself. What is he doing there, why is he a patient?

Langtry from his papers knows of the violent crisis from which he ostensibly needs to recover but is hard to square this with the man she sees and begins to know.

Despite his acceptance after the initial disquiet vanishes, Langtry does not see, cannot see, the devastating consequences of her burgeoning interest in her new patient and he, never willing it, becomes the catalyst for jealousy, violence, intrigue, conspiracy, love and tragedy.

The ending is a bit too abrupt and leaves a reader hanging and wondering just what it was all about. But then — ANYthing McCullough might have attempted after her great success with Thornbirds was likely to be a letdown.

A MINISTER, concluding his sermon on the subject of human frailties and imperfections, said to the congregation, "If there is one among you who considers himself perfect, I would like that person to stand up."

A small man, seated far back in the church, rose. The minister, startled, asked, "Sir, do I understand you consider yourself perfect?"

"No," the man replied, "I'm just here as a stand-in for my wife's first husband."

WITH CHICAGO weather figuring so prominently in the news of late, here's a little lowdown on the "Windy City." Although the wind blows at an average of 10.4 miles an hour, there are a number of "breezier" places in America.

At Kennedy and LaGuardia Airports in New York, for instance, the wind blows at an average 12.2 mph; at a typical moment, the winds blow at 14.1 mph in Dodge City, Kansas; 13.7 in Amarillo, Texas; 13.3 in Cheyenne, Wyoming; 12.8 in Oklahoma City; 12.6 in Boston; 12.3 in Buffalo, New York, and in Honolulu (and you all know where that is), it averages 11.8 miles an hour.

So what's this about "the" Windy City?

THE BOTTOM LINE: Setting a good example for your children takes all the fun out of middle age.

Wisner, York to wed

Carolyn Marie Wisner of Belleville and Christopher Kevin York of Inkster are engaged and making plans for an August 24 wedding at St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Belleville. The bride-elect, who resides at 11037 Buchanan St., Belleville, is the daughter of Christine Mardegian of 8800 Tuttle Hill Rd., Ypsilanti, and Kenneth Wisner of 800 Nasa Rd., Webster, Tex. A 1979 graduate of Belleville High School and an employee of the Tin Lizzie Restaurant in Belleville, she is currently attending Auston's Finishing School. The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome York of 715 Clair Ave., Inkster, is a 1977 alumnus of Cherry Hill High School. A supervisor at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors in Ypsilanti, he is currently studying computer programming at Wayne County Community College.

For variety in your garden, 'think purple'

Tired of the same old green beans, white cauliflower and yellow onions? Winter garden planning time is your chance to change all that: think purple! A little browsing in the seed catalogs will reveal a variety of common vegetables in uncommon colors — including purple.

Extension horticulturists at Michigan State University suggest that anyone wanting to add a little purple pizzaz to the garden need look no farther than the cabbage family. Several varieties of red or purple cabbage are available, along with purple head cauliflower and purple kohlrabi.

Purple cabbage varieties include Mammoth Red Rock, Red Head, Ruby Ball and Red Acre. Royal Purple cauliflower looks and tastes similar to or better than ordinary cauliflower except that the curd — the edible part — is purple. It turns light green when cooked. Early Purple Vienna kohlrabi has purplish-green leaves and stems. The swollen portion of the stem — the part that's eaten — has reddish-purple skin and white flesh.

Royalty and Royal Burgundy are productive early bush-type beans. The 5- to 6-inch pods are a deep royal purple. After a couple of minutes in boiling water, they turn a rich dark green.

Another colorful bean is the Scarlet Runner pole bean. The climbing vine bears scarlet flowers and green pods that turn to wine red when ripe. The seeds inside the pods are reddish-brown mottled with black. Though it's most often planted as an ornamental, the beans are edible both as snap beans and shelled beans.

For a dash of color in your salad garden, try Salad Trim or Ruby lettuce.

Salad Trim is a purplish-red leaf lettuce. Ruby, a 1958 All-American Selections bronze medal winner, is a looseleaf red, frilly lettuce that holds up well in hot weather.

If you still don't have enough purple in your garden, you can choose from crops that are commonly purple. Eggplant, red hamburger onions, beets, ornamental corn and rutabagas all have their place in a purple color scheme.

Plan flowers for drying into garden scheme now

August is no time to decide you should have planted flowers for drying in the spring. Now, while the seed catalogs are coming in and the garden plans are taking shape, is the time to choose what you'll plant.

Extension horticulturists at Michigan State University point out that seed catalogs often group together flowers that are especially good for drying. Check the indexes for listings like "ever-lasting."

In a catalog that lists flowers strictly by species, look for the following annuals: strawflowers, statice, annual larkspur, marigold, dusty miller, cockscomb, and calendula. All these flowers dry nicely hung upside-down in bunches or stood upright in jars.

Perennials that dry well by this technique include astilbe, baby's breath, lavender, lemon verbena, flowering onion, bee balm and butterfly weed.

For drying in sand or borax, consider annual asters, balsam (Touch-Me-Not), candytuft, Canterbury bells (a biennial), annual dianthus, coreopsis, cornflower, cosmos, gloriosa daisy, pansy, stock, snapdragon and zinnia. Perennials that can be dried by this method include perennial asters, balloonflower, columbine, coneflower, coralbells, delphinium, painted and Shasta daisies, peonies, mums, day lilies, iris, gladiolus, lilac, lily of the valley, tulips and roses.

Annuals, the horticulturists explain, are grown new from seed each year. Some are available as greenhouse-grown bedding plants, while others are planted as seed in the garden. Biennials take two years to grow, flower and produce seed. They are often planted from seed in the fall. Perennials may be planted as seeds, plants, bulbs, corms or tubers.

Frances Cothorn heads up Seniors

Installation of officers was the highlight of the Jan. 7 meeting of the Belleville Area Senior Citizens Club. At the get-together at Edgemont Elementary School the following members took office: Frances Cothorn, president; Nelva Watkins, vice-president; Esther Deering, secretary; and Louise Van Sickle, treasurer.

Added to the board of directors were George Haft, Bill Moser and Bill Krause.

Versatility was the trademark of the 22 players named to Associated Newspapers' 1981 Class B All-Area Football Team.

Nearly all of the gridders selected went both ways and had such outstanding talent they could have started on just about any Class A high school grid teams around.

Inkster, which tied for the Suburban Athletic Conference title with a 3-1 record, placed seven on the dream squad. Dearborn Heights Robichaud also had seven named to the team, Cherry Hill had five selected and New Boston Huron had three All-Area gridders.

Making the honor team from Inkster were Christopher Starks, Bernard Robinson, Steve Robertson, Kelby Knight, Alphonso Baskin, Dwight Butler and Ronald Gibson. Robichaud's nominees are Kenrick Bond, Reed Cowherd, Richard Mele, David McIntosh, Wade Cook, Paul Green and Mark Medlock.

Cherry Hill placed John Green, Everett Pounds, Guy Krikorian, Greg Evans and Sam Taylor, while New Boston Huron's trio are Shawn Slayton, Mike Cady and A.J. Richardson.

Arnice James, Associated Newspapers' Coach of the Year, led his Inkster Vikings to five consecutive wins after dropping his first four games. The 5-game winning streak allowed the Vikings to post a 5-4 overall record and 3-1 in the SAC to tie Highland Park for the league title.

BERNARD ROBINSON, a 5-7, 165-pound sophomore, played a vital role for Inkster, rushing for 564 yards on 67 carries and scoring eight touchdowns. Included were runbacks of a punt and kickoff for touchdowns. The fleet 10th grader has a bright future with his ability to hit the hole quickly and speed to leave would-be tacklers grasping for air when he passes the line of scrimmage. Chosen All-SAC running back.

STEVE ROBERTSON played both ways at guard and defensive tackle and is considered a major college prospect.

The 5-10, 212-pound senior made 71 solo tackles, assisted on 40 other tackles, sacked the opposing quarterback seven times and blocked two punts. Made all-league as offensive guard.

CHRISTOPHER STARKS was named again to ANP's All-Area team with some impressive statistics. The 5-11, 165-pound wide receiver grabbed 14 receptions for 189 yards and two touchdowns. Also named All-SAC end and was valuable as defensive back for Inkster when opponents had the ball.

KELBY KNIGHT, a 6-1, 184-pound offensive tackle and defensive end was especially effective in stopping the other team's offense. The strong senior made 40 solo tackles, assisted on 28 others, sacked the opposing quarterback three times, recovered a fumble and blocked one punt. Named to All-SAC squad as defensive end.

ALPHONSO BASKIN's 60 solo tackles and 51 assisted stops made him an all-league selection as a middle linebaker. The 5-9, 175-pound senior also sacked the opposing quarterback twice and intercepted a pass in Inkster's resurgence in the last five games of the season.

DWIGHT BUTLER made an unusual amount of tackles for a safety, coming up with 41 solo stops and 27 assists. He intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles. He was one of six Inkster players named All-Suburban Athletic Conference.

January 20 & 21, 1982

RONALD GIBSON made honorable mention all-league and had some impressive stats. He had 25 solo tackles and assisted on 15 others plus intercepting four passes. The 5-8, 160-pound senior cornerback used speed and quickness to be effective against the run.

KENRIC BOND repeats as an All-Area selection for Robichaud. The talented 6-0, 185-pound running back and linebacker was co-Most Valuable Player in the Suburban Athletic Conference. Tri-Captain this season, made all-city and honorable mention All-Suburban and honorable mention All-State. Called the finest running back among Dearborn Heights' four high schools. Carried the ball 152 times for 577 yards. Caught eight passes for 140 yards and one touchdown. Leading Bulldog defensive player with 93 tackles. Coach Bob Yauck calls him best all-around player on the team. The 3-year letterman in basketball also recovered two fumbles and forced another, had 65 assists and was honored as captain of All-City team.

REED COWHERD won honors as a center and defensive end. The 6-2, 205-pound senior was one of the best one-on-one blockers ever to snap the ball for the Bulldogs. In addition, he was chosen first team All-SAC as a defensive end. "He's one of the best centers we've had at Robichaud in the past 10 years," said Coach Yauck. An All-City player, he carries a 3.0 grade point average and is a fine college prospect. Started as defensive tackle but was moved to defensive end and really "took off," Yauck said.

RICHARD MELE is a 5-10, 195-pound junior who played offensive guard and defensive tackle. First year on varsity, he earned All-League and All-City honors. He's a 2-year letterman as a wrestler and was All-City as a wrestler as a sophomore. Also stand out in baseball, starting at first base as a 10th grader. "We're looking for another outstanding year from this fine young man next season," Yauck said. Named Tri-Captain for next football season and plays with great enthusiasm.

DAVID MCINTOSH was called by the Willow Run coach the finest defensive tackle they faced. The 6-2, 205-pound junior was elected Tri-Captain for next grid season and will give the Bulldogs an extremely tough defensive line. "He anchored our offensive line and I would rate him as an All-State candidate next year as a defensive tackle," Coach Yauck said. McIntosh had 65 solo tackles, 48 assists and five fumble recoveries in making honorable mention All-Suburban.

WADE COOK just missed making All-Suburban Athletic League team by one vote. The 5-9, 165-pound speedster made All-City as a junior and great things are expected of him next fall. Very strong against the run, he was assigned to cover the best pass receiver opponents had. Grabbed two interceptions on defense, while on offense, he was leading Bulldog receiver with 10 receptions for 230 yards and two touchdowns. "He gave us a solid performance every game," Coach Yauck said.

PAUL GREEN repeats as player on ANP's All-Area team. He made it last year as a freshman and great things are expected of this bright, organized, dedicated young man. He was all-league last year and honorable mention this season. Fine two-way player, continues to improve and was an excellent blocker in his first year on offensive line. "I feel that as a junior or senior Paul will be All-State," Yauck said. "He's a straight 'A' student and his goal is to play college football."

MARK MEDLOCK was Bulldogs' leading pass interceptor with six. Also was electrifying as quarterback, hitting 44 pass completions in 97 attempts for 528 yards and four TD's. Named All-Suburban Athletic Conference quarterback as a sophomore and honorable mention All-State. He also scored two touchdowns. In the Highland Park game, Medlock hit Ed Williams with a touchdown pass in the last 90 seconds that upset the Parkers and allowed Inkster to tie for the SAC title. He won two games this season with his touchdown passes.

MIKE CADY was a leader on and off the field. The rugged 6-3, 22-pound center/linebacker helped Coach Jamie Hinojosa post a 3-5 season mark. The Chiefs, because of their uncertain status in fielding a team, dropped out of the Huron League. However, Cady and Shawn Slayton, who both made All-League last year, were named honorable mention All-League this year. An excellent blocker, Mike carries a 3.86 grade point average in the schoolroom and was tri-captain. "He is a good student, a real gentleman and is very coachable," says Coach Hinojosa. Hinojosa said New Boston Huron High School received a letter from officials who did Hurons game at the Pontiac Silverdome this past fall which praised Cady for his mature, sportsman-like approach to the game. He wants to play college football and has tools to be successful.

SHAWN SLAYTON, a 6-0, 175-pound tailback/linebacker was a vital cog in Huron's machine. He gained more than 500 yards, even though Coach Hinojosa described his offensive line as young and inexperienced for the most part. He carried the ball three out of every four rushes for the Chiefs and opponents keyed on the hard-working back. "If he would have had an experienced line blocking for him, he would have been one of the premiere runners in this area," Coach Hinojosa said.

Inkster's James is Coach of the Year

Vikings rally to a championship year

This past football season ended totally different than it started for the Inkster Vikings. Coach Arnice James' squad lost its first four games — then won its last five contests of the season.

Those five consecutive wins lifted Inkster to a 5-4 season record and a 3-1 Suburban Athletic Conference mark which gave them a co-championship with Highland Park.

For his efforts, Arnice James has been named Associated Newspapers' Class B Coach of the Year.

The veteran grid mentor said this fall's late-season heroics was one of two big thrills in his coaching career, which started in 1974. James' other big thrill in coaching football came in his first year as varsity coach at Inkster in 1974. The Vikings finished that season with a 7-2 record and second in the SAC. They also finished runnerup in the SAC in 1977 with a 5-2 overall mark in 1977.

"I was very pleased with the way we came on strong at the end of the season," said James, who has been a physical education teacher in Inkster Public Schools since 1952. He just finished his 8th year as varsity grid coach after coaching many years at the junior high level. His coaching duties included guiding basketball, football, track and baseball at Felrath Junior High where he was director of the physical education and athletic department.

He was named athletic director at Inkster High School in 1978.

"We finished real strong this fall and could very easily have had a 7-2 record," James said. "We lost to Highland Park, 8-0, when they scored late in the fourth quarter and we came back and almost scored. We lost to Warren Huron 12-6 in overtime. Also, we held a good Willow Run team to a slight 7-6 lead until they scored two touchdowns in the last four minutes to put the game out of reach."

"I got a real thrill coaching the boys who I had coached earlier at the junior high level," James said. "It's very nice to see them mature as fine football players and as fine young men."

James, 55, and his wife, Velree, have a married daughter, Val Jean Rivers, who lives in Detroit and is employed as a broker.

This fall's football team had many outstanding players on it and six Vikings were named to the All-Suburban Athletic Conference team. Many of James' players were sophomores and juniors and he looks for another fine team next year.

But win or lose, he finds coaching young men and seeing them make something of themselves is a great reward for his coaching efforts.

"We appreciate winning and the thrill that goes with it, but my greatest desire is to see these fine young men mature and become the best they can be in their chosen line of work in life," James said.

Salem 2nd half surge wins key Sub '8' games

Rocks rule conference cage world

Plymouth Salem's solid bench strength is becoming more evident with each passing game.

Coach Fred Thomann's Rocks played strong second halves to down Allen Park, 54-40, and defending Suburban '8' League champion Dearborn, 54-45, last week to stretch its conference-leading mark to 5-0.

Salem trailed winless Allen Park 22-20 after 16 minutes before aggressive defense in the third stanza blew the game open. The Rocks barely led the Pioneers 20-18 Friday at intermission before their "best quarter of the season" — a 17-8 advantage — gave them the winning edge.

"The boys showed a lot in coming back to win both games in the second half," said Thomann, who is looking for his eighth Suburban '8' league basketball title in the last 10 years. He was especially happy with the win over Dearborn and could have possibly won by as many as 25 or 30 points if he had played the starters longer.

It was supposed to be somewhat of a showdown for first place in the Sub '8' League but it was just about decided after the third period. Dearborn came out with a deliberate offense and matched Salem's tenacious defense as the host squad led the visiting Pioneers 8-6 after eight minutes. Then a 12-12 deadlock in the second quarter sent the teams to the locker room with the Rocks leading 20-12.

Then came what Thomann calls "our team's best quarter of the season." "We not only played good, solid defense," the 6-foot-8 coach said, "but we only had one turnover on offense while causing Dearborn to turn the ball over eight times in the third period. We had 14 turnovers in the first half to Dearborn's five, but we settled down and took control of the game in the decisive third quarter."

Thomann said the first half was a feeling out brand of ball where both teams played hard on defense and there was not much flow to the game.

Salem's Mike McBride played a tremendous game, pumping in a game-high 18 points and holding Dearborn's top scorer, Schedlich, to just eight, which is 10 below his average. "It was McBride's best game of the season," Thomann said in praising the hustling senior. "Dearborn's starters only scored 23 points in the entire game."

Dave Miller had eight assists to go with his 10 points and David Houle grabbed eight rebounds in addition to notching 10 points. Dave Mifsud was the Pioneers' only double-figure scorer with 11 markers.

The Rocks ran their record to 5-0 to continue atop the Suburban '8' League all alone and are 7-2 on the season. Dearborn suffered its second league setback in four starts and dropped to 6-3 overall.

This week, Salem plays two non-league encounters, hosting Redford Union on Tuesday before traveling to take on a rugged Dearborn Fordson team on the road. "It's kind of ironic," Thomann said. "We defeated Dearborn Edsel Ford when they were 5-2, we beat Dearborn when they were 6-2 and now we'll face Dearborn Fordson when their record is 7-2."

Even though the Tractors have won seven of nine games, they do not seem as strong as in other years and Salem has a good chance of knocking them off. However, Salem has not played nearly as well on the road as they have at home.

Against Allen Park last week Tuesday, the Rocks had a tough time getting started against the deliberate style of play of the Jaguars. Salem jumped into a 11-6 lead after one period, but a 16-10 scoring burst by the host Parkers gave them a 22-21 edge at intermission in the league tussle. Coach Thomann instructed his players to become much more aggressive in the third quarter and they responded by holding Allen Park to only 18 points in the second half while drilling in 33 themselves.

Salem once again had very balanced scoring. McBride led the Rocks with 11 points, Cohen and Houle, a pair of 6-4 junior forwards, each had eight, and Miller dropped in six besides playing a strong floor game.

Dave Dionigian led Allen Park with 12 markers and Don Goubis added 11. Salem had only six free throws in the game to the Parkers' 17, but scored 26 field goals to the Jaguars' 13.

Franklin runs past Glenn, 72-58

John Glenn coach Dan Henry was upset after the first quarter Friday night and knew his Rockets would have a tough time catching Livonia Franklin. The host Patriots had thwarted his team's plans to slow the game down and rang up 18-12 first quarter lead on its way to a 72-58 Northwest Suburban League victory.

"Our game plan was to slow the game down and hold Franklin to eight or 10 points in the first quarter to take them out of their running game. However, our boys underestimated their quickness and when they got off and running with 18 points in the first period, I knew it would be a long game."

Franklin outscored the Rockets in every period, running up margins of 18-14, 19-18 and 17-14 the last three periods in winning its third league conquest in four starts and posting a 5-3 mark overall. Glenn, meanwhile, playing its fifth consecutive game on the road since Dec. 18, dropped to 1-3 in the Northwest Suburban League and 2-7 overall.

Senior Bob Hawley played well for the rockets, pumping in 19 points and grabbing 12 rebounds. Junior Jack Walker, playing with an injured back, again got into foul trouble and sat out much of the game but still managed 10 points and nine caroms. Junior Greg Gill directed the Rocket floor game and added nine markers.

For the victorious Patriots, 5-11 guard Mike Williamson pumped in 20 points on eight field goals and 4-of-8 from the charity stripe. Burly 6-4, 220-pound junior center Bob Stebbins bulled his way inside for 19 points, guard John Hart pumped in 15 and 6-2 sophomore forward M. Wilkins added 13 points.

"We knew their game plan," said Henry, who has scouted the Pats on several occasions. "We knew their strategy and even knew which players would get the fast-break passes, but we didn't respond quickly enough. They put pressure on us and we threw some passes away. That gave them some easy lay-ups."

"Still, they only beat us by a few points each quarter and I think we'll give them a real battle when we get back on our friendly home court. You know, this was our fifth road game since Dec. 18 and for a young team that is a very long time."

Henry said senior Bob Hawley played well as did junior Todd Jennings. "I challenged both Bob and Todd and told them we needed them to play better and both responded with very good games," Henry said.

Things didn't get any easier this week as Glenn was scheduled to host Dearborn Fordson (7-2) Tuesday night in a non-league and then host Redford Union Friday night in another out-of-league challenge.

"The boys' attitudes are great and they are primed to upset a good team soon. Don't be surprised if it's Fordson," Henry said Sunday afternoon.

Wayne rally falls short, 54-52

Bentley edges Zebras in cliffhanger

By ERIC GEARNES
Special Writer

Coach Dan Vasiloff summed up what everybody at last Friday night's Wayne versus Livonia Bentley game felt: "If we had 30 more seconds we would have won it."

Unfortunately for the Zebras, the buzzer sounded about one second before Jim Nibert popped in what would have been a tying bucket and Wayne fell to the Bulldogs 54-52.

The loss to the always-tough Livonia Bentley team was doubly disappointing because it spoiled what would have been an exceptional comeback by the young upset-minded Zebras.

Wayne had comeback from a 10 point halftime deficit only to run out of time at the finish.

Wayne broke on top in the first quarter as all five of the starters got in the scoring column to take an 11-10 lead. Point guard Norm Devoe accounted for four of the team's total.

In the second stanza Bentley got seven points from 6-4 Mike McCorry and Bob Nicol added six more to propel the Bulldogs to a comfortable 33-23 halftime lead on the basis of a 23 point second quarter.

The Zebras got back in the contest in the third period outgunning the Bulldogs 20-10 on the strength of nine point quarter by Jim Nibert and pulled even at the end of the quarter 43-43.

In the fourth period the game saw-sawed back and forth with Dave Solarz coming off the bench and hitting on five of six free throws to keep the Zebras close. With less than 20 seconds remaining the Bulldogs got a bucket from Eric Sink to go up by two.

With two seconds remaining Devoe found Nibert in the corner, but his shot just failed to beat the buzzer and the Bulldogs got their fourth victory against two defeats.

While Vasiloff was unhappy with the teams loss he still felt good about their performance. "We played well and we came back, we got a tremendous performance from Dave (Solarz) and Jim (Nibert) and we just ran out of time," said the first year Zebra coach.

Wayne will now return to league play Friday night when they play host to Taylor Truman.

In the jayvee contest the junior Zebras fell to the Bulldogs 64-58 despite an outstanding 27 point performance by Keith Strickland.

Canton's 2-7 Chiefs seek respect on the cage court

First year basketball coach Dave Van Wagoner must feel a little like comedian Rodney Dangerfield. All he wants is a little respect for his Chief cagers.

The Canton coach watched his squad drop its seventh game in eight starts Friday at Northville as the Mustangs rode a 22-6 third quarter margin to a 51-47 Western Six League victory.

"We know teams will look at our 1-8 record and think we will not be competitive," Van Wagoner said after Friday's discouraging defeat. "But we're working hard in searching for respect on the court. We still think we'll be all right if we work hard and should knock off some good teams before the season is over."

Canton's mystifying Chiefs are really hard to figure out. They play like world-beaters during some quarters, but completely fall apart at other times during a game. That was especially true when a disastrous third quarter ruined an otherwise excellent defensive performance by the Chiefs.

Canton jumped to a 6-4 first quarter edge in a low-scoring start. The Chiefs increased their lead to 22-15 at halftime by holding Northville to just 11 second quarter points. That's when the roof fell in.

In the disastrous third quarter, Northville threw on a full-court press and converted many Canton turnovers into easy baskets on their way to a 22-6 scoring binge. Northville's 6-4 center Carl Lang got eight of his game-high 14 markers in the third stanza and teammate Kurzawa got all eight of his points in that frame.

"We went ice cold from the floor, hitting only 2-of-17 field goal attempts in that period," Van Wagoner said.

"We also missed six free throws during that span. Northville got a lot of steals off their press when we threw the ball away. They had a good press and we just didn't adjust to it very well."

Canton came back with a 19-14 edge in the final quarter but its rally fell four points short. Matt Thomas and Steve Tuttle paced the Chiefs with 11 points weach as Canton matched the host squad with 18 field goals. However, the Mustangs sank 15-of-24 from the free throw line to Canton's 11-of-20 effort. Tim McLaughlin, a 6-2 forward, was the only other Northville player in double digits with 11 points.

"Mike Scarpello played a fine defensive game for us," Van Wagoner said.

"Pat Murphy is playing more and improving with every game. He played his finest game so far. The boys worked real hard and our attitude is good. It just seems to be a combination of things that keeps us from winning — but we feel we're ready to start winning anytime now."

Canton was scheduled to travel to Livonia Bentley Tuesday night of this week for a non-league challenge before hosting Livonia Churchill Friday night in a Western Six League tussle.

A.J. RICHARDSON started as a junior this year at quarterback and has a "super arm" according to Hinojosa. "Again, our line was not able to give him the kind of protection he needed and he had to run for his life at times. But he's a tough kid and we look for great things next year if we can build a solid offensive line." On defense, Richardson played safety and intercepted two passes to beat Warren High.

JOHN GREEN, a 5-11, 170-pound tailback and safety helped Cherry Hill overcome adversity in a 2-7 season. Coach Jerry Pawloski had few things to cheer him in a 1-5 Tri-River League record, but Green was an all-conference choice as a defensive back. "He was one of the hardest hitters on this year's squad," Pawloski said. "He's an excellent two-way player who can do it all." Green was the Spartans' leading rusher with 470 yards on 101 carries and six touchdowns. Green led Cherry Hill in pass receptions, kickoff and punt returns, touchdowns, scoring and was leading tackler among Cherry Hill's defensive secondary. Had two interceptions and returned one for a 60-yard TD. "John has more football sense than any player I've coached in 17 years and is definitely a top college prospect," Pawloski said. Green runs the 40 yards in 4.7 and was chosen Most Valuable Spartan.

EVERETT POUNDS was an honorable mention All-Tri-River League player. The 6-0, 215-pound senior two-way tackle was the only Cherry Hill lineman to play both ways all season. A durable and steady performer, Pounds was the third leading tackler for the Spartans, collecting 51 tackles, including 21 solos and recovered two fumbles. "He was one of our leading blockers and we did most of our running behind his spot in the line," Pawloski said. "He was the most improved player on this years team."

GUY KRIKORIAN was also an honorable mention all-league selection. The burly 5-11, 205-pound senior played fullback and linebacker. "On offense Guy played tackle and fullback and handled the Cherry Hill place-kicking duties for two years. He made good on 9 of 10 extra points and one was blocked," Pawloski said. Krikorian has been a two-year starter of defense and was the leading Spartan tackler this season. He had 47 solo tackles and assisted on 18 others. He recovered four fumbles, intercepted two passes and sacked the opposing quarterback four times. "He is one of the strongest players Cherry Hill has ever had. He has leg pressed over 1,000 pounds," Pawloski said.

GREG EVANS, a tri-captain who is 6-4, 245-pounds, played defensive tackle, center and offensive tackle for the Spartans. An honorable mention All-League player, he has been a 2-year starter on Cherry Hill's grid squad. "Greg was a two-way player early in the season until injuries forced him into playing defense," Pawloski said. While playing defensive tackle, Greg was second in total tackles with 59 but was the team leader in assisted tackles with 30. His ability to put great pressure on the opposing quarterback helped him grab two fumble recoveries and a pair of quarterback sacks.

SAM TAYLOR showed his versatility in moving from quarterback to being an outstanding defensive player for Cherry Hill's undermanned squad. The 6-0, 190-pound senior tri-captain has been a two-year starter and started at quarterback last year but ended up as a defensive standout this year. "Sam also carried the football as a fullback and ended up with the best average per carry on the team," Coach Pawloski said. Contributed 33 tackles, including seven quarterback sacks, most by a Spartan. "He's one of the most determined defensive ball players on the team. Although not extremely fast, he has good quickness which enabled him to overwhelm opposing quarterbacks," Pawloski said. Taylor was the leading tackler in the final game of the season — a shutout of Clarenceville by a strong Cherry Hill defense that played its finest game of the year.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

IN THE DISTRICT COURT,
29TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

JOSEPH P. SELWA and MARY L. SELWA, Plaintiffs,
v.
JOHN STEPHENS and HELEN STEPHENS,
Defendants.

Case No. C-82-27
PUBLICATION NOTICE
On the 11th day of January, 1982, an action was filed by JOSEPH P. SELWA and MARY L. SELWA, Plaintiffs, against JOHN STEPHENS and HELEN STEPHENS, Defendants, in this court to forfeit a land contract.

On the same date, Judge John C. Selzer signed an order to the effect that the Defendants, JOHN STEPHENS and HELEN STEPHENS, shall answer or take such other action as may be permitted by law on or before the 25th day of February, 1982. Failure to comply with this order will result in a judgment by default against such Defendants for relief demanded in the complaint filed in this court.
